LATER FROM MEXICO.

Progress of the Revolution—Defeat of the Liberals.

Recovery of Silver on Mr. Forsyth's Premises—General Revolutionary Movements.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

MEXICO, Tuesday, Dec. 28, 1858.

Guadalajara has fallen at last, so we may regard that quarter. According to the Government forces rested in the attack on the 14th, and on the 15th the place was occupied by the loyal troops of the Government. The usual ceremonies on the occasion, dinner, &c., was gone through with. The Government put forth bulletins with the usual news, and in a modest manner suggested that the country would soon be in the enjoyment of peace and quiet. The particulars of the conflict at Guadalajara have not yet come forward. Should they arrive, and a bulletin be published in time for this mail, I shall inclose it to you. Some doubt the reported victory. For my part I am ready to believe anything in these days. The world has pretty much gone wrong, and as for poor Mexico, she never yet did find the advantage of being on the right track. It seems incredible that 4,000 men, attacking could have defeated 6,000 well intrenched soldiers. But such must have been the case if the Government has written Guadalajara. What have we to hope from the Liberals after such an unfortunate affair? As I have said before, and have proved, nothing.

Since intercepting the receipt of the news of the capture of Guadalajara, the Liberals reached here of a defeat they met at Oaxaca against the Government. At that place the Liberals, consisting of 500 men, attacked a force of 1,000 men, and were defeated with the loss of 200 killed and wounded. This is a specimen of the morality of the day, and fairly shows how much reliance can be put upon the patriotic, disinterested soldiery of Mexico. With these men the Government has the impudence to say the country is at peace. Peace is a thing not in this poor country.

What will the American people say to what I have been to relate? On the 17th inst., the police entered into the residence of the Hon. Jesse Fosyth, Ex-American Minister to Mexico, and there discovered some bags of silver bars buried in the garden, and in a small establishment commonly found in gardens belonging to city residences. On the 17th and 18th the police were busy in excavating and cleansing these bars, and in bringing them to this city from Tacubaya. The discovery has created the liveliest interest all through this city—the more so as these bars are by all the world believed to be of those which were made from the silver ornaments ripped from the cathedral of Morelia. Before Mr. Forsyth's departure from hence he was accused by the Government with having had something to do with these bars of silver, and now, to have found them after his departure, the charge seems tolerably well substantiated. It will be for Mr. Forsyth to excuse himself if he can. The only excuse which one can make, who sees with constitution the representative of the United States thus compromised, is that the cathedral of Morelia was sacked by a force claiming relations with one of the political parties of the country, and that Mr. Forsyth had to do with those bars of silver to aid the cause of that party. But there is a great inconsistency in this defense, inasmuch as Mr. Forsyth had recognized, as the Government of this country, a party of plunderers, who denounced the party that sacked the cathedral as a lot of bandits, long before Mr. Forsyth took the silver under his roof. However, I shall not make any pleadings in this case. The affair has been cause for decided mortification to foreigners of respectability in this city, and a great feather in the caps of those who delight in denouncing the detested North Americans. Certainly, in this instance, they have a fair chance to mortify us, and you may rest assured they will do it up in a clever manner. Already officials of the Government have said that the existence of the bars of silver was made known to the police by a foreigner. For the present I shall withhold names, hoping that this may not prove true. I can only say that I have inquired if there were any Americans mixed up in the affair, and so far have not heard the name of one mentioned. This is a great mortification. The creditor of the Government, the Minister, will most likely come out to-day with the whole story; but as it does not appear until 1 P. M., and this letter must leave at 3 A. M., it will be impossible for me to give you, until my next, this nice piece of slander of Americans in general and Mr. Forsyth in particular.

The attack upon Puebla on the 13th and 14th inst. appears to have been no great affair, although the Liberals had some 2,000 men, and the garrison of that city did not amount to half the number. The Liberals have gone off to the south, from Puebla, without exciting much attention. Some days since, we have seen so much in this place, where we have so much interesting material to satisfy the public mind. I do not know where the Liberals who attacked Puebla have gone to. It is likely the last news we get of them will come in the shape of some small village sacked.

On the 14th a considerable portion of the Government forces at Orizaba moved from that place. Whether they started for Vera Cruz or in pursuit of some Liberals in that quarter remains to be explained. The Commander of the forces, on leaving Orizaba, refused to make known his plans.

The Pintos have fallen back into the lower part of the valley of Cuernavaca, where they are recruiting, and occasionally committing some new acts of outrage upon the natives in that region of country.

Night before last there was considerable anxiety manifested by the Government, owing to signs of discontent amongst the troops. It was reported that a pronunciamento had actually been planned, and was to break forth on that night. The troops were ordered to quarters at an early hour, and at several points were actually locked up. Three Generals were seized and thrown in prison. The police were on the look out, douched at some points, and at none were allowed their usual watching slumbers. Something was in the wind, but what it was has not yet been published. One report says a movement was to have been made for SANTA ANNA; another that General ECHEGARAY was to have been the man; another that ROBLES was to have been put in the place of ZULOAGA, &c. A few days more, when asked of the projected movement, may Queen ask? and this I consider the reliable fact of the matter.

It is now a year and more since the Constitutional Congress was broken up by COMONFORT, and since the country has been divided and fighting for central and federal systems of government. Some forty general battles have been fought, a hundred or more scrimmages have taken place, and what have been the results? The losses of life in battle have been small—not more than 3,000 or 4,000 at the outside. Thousands of families have been ruined. A score or more of villages and towns have been desolated. The greater part of the agricultural districts have been pillaged and abandoned. The manufactories of the country have been brought to a stand-still, mining interests have been sorely prejudiced, commerce has been crippled, and pretty much broken up; the revenues of the country have been reduced to almost nothing. In fine, the country has undergone a course of wreck and ruin that ten years of peace, under the best Mexican rule, will not be able to atone for. And what now promises? If the past has been and, the future certainly promises something tenfold more sad, if some aid does not come to us from abroad. The forces now in the field are three times as great as they were one year ago. Most of the leaders now in the strife have nothing to gain from order in the country. Their present life suits them, and they are unadvanced in any respectable way of gaining a living. As for political principles these men will espouse any that will give them the chance of living as they are now living. If the Puros win to-morrow their principal chiefs will be found against them in a few days.

The year now soon to open upon us must be a sad one for poor Mexico, unless the American Government does something. Without the aid of the United States what hope have we?

DECEMBER 18, 1858.

The Pintos have had a check again at Cuanila de Mexico. A serious battle took place at that point between the Pintos, under VELLEDA, and the Government forces under Gen. ECHEGARAY. According to rumors of a liberal character, the Government forces got the worst of it; but the Government of Jalisco report above the victory to have been on their side. However, the victory, on whichever side it may have been, could have been nothing to boast of. The mortality was only twenty after a cannonade of several hours and the discharge of over 2,000 round shot.

The siege of Vera Cruz has not been begun yet, and it is doubtful if it be attempted unless the Liberals are well beaten at Guadalajara.

At Vera Cruz the foreign vessels are still affording succor to persecuted Liberals. The French officers are playing the traitor to the members of the Juarez Government; but still the Liberals do not feel altogether satisfied that this line of conduct insures their future safety. They are for the time all attention to the French officers, and the Ministers of the Constitutional Government are spending a good time. I think it quite likely that the French Admiral will put to sea again before long. He has had some misunderstanding with the French Minister in this capital, and it is said they have both referred their cases home for further instructions. Some say that Admiral PENAUD has declared that he finds himself fooled by the representations of the Minister, M. DE GABRAC. That according to GABRAC's story, he expected to find all the foreigners in Vera Cruz barricaded, with their talapas in one or two houses, and the Mexicans firing upon them every time they dared to thrust their noses beyond the jam of a window or door. This is the charitable side of the French intervention, but it is not deserving of much credit. Mystery surrounds the French movements.

The few words of the Spanish movements, although it is conceded that they are mixing in the internal affairs of this country, and intend doing so on a much larger scale. One report is, that they intend to put [illegible] Tennessee, from Vera Cruz, Dec. 23, passed New-Orleans on Saturday, Dec. 25.

An outline of her news was transmitted by telegraph. We add other details of interest.

Two French barks and one English brig were discharging in the port of Vera Cruz.

Five French and three Spanish war vessels were at Sacrificios; also, the United States sloop-of-war Saratoga—her officers and crew all well.

Off Vera Cruz, on the 23d, the Tennessee saw an United States sloop-of-war—supposed to be the St. Louis—bound in.

The Vera Cruz Progreso speaks in the highest terms of Mr. BUCHANAN's Message, especially that portion which relates to Mexico. After giving a resume of this part of the Message, the Progreso says:

"We can but congratulate ourselves on the change, in general, which this declaration of a great Power augurs in our foreign relations. The sacrifices and mortifications hitherto experienced by the members of our Federal Government on account of an inexplicable observation of the diplomatic corps at the capital, will find a speedy termination. Already a powerful nation, through the mouth of its supreme authority, in an official document, recognizes the legitimacy of a Government which, until now, has been regarded as intrusive by the diplomatic body. The position taken by the Executive at Washington, should exercise a powerful influence on the European cabinets, and induce them to recede from the position into which they have precipitated by illegitimate interests operating on some of their diplomatic agents by the necessarily partial information thus placed before them.

With reference to establishing posts on our frontiers, even if the condition of that part of the country is lamentable, and on the hypothesis that, the power of self-preservation failing, the law of nations would authorize the people of the North to take the temporary measures suggested by their President, we can never believe that a body of illustrious patriots, such as those composing the Senate of that Republic, would determine on such an act without the consent of a Government in which will be found all the compliance compatible with the national dignity and the integrity of our Territory. Much less can we believe that other means will be denied to the people of those sections for the security to which they have a right, without having recourse to that which Mr. BUCHANAN considers unique in the world.

For these reasons, we repeat that we congratulate ourselves on the new aspect of our foreign relations, and believe that the discourse of the President is of the greatest importance relative to our actual and prospective situation. From the sagacity and circumspection of Señor JUAREZ and his ministers we derive the promise that the cause of the liberal party will derive great fruits from the attitude assumed at Washington, as well as that the United States will be furnished with the necessary security for its frontiers, without having recourse to the means proposed by Mr. BUCHANAN, which, if adopted as proposed, would be inadmissible, and throw the nation into great alarm."

The Progreso has a letter from the City of Mexico, dated on the 18th. The writer says that the most terrible commotion reigns in the Zuloaga Party, and that ZULOAGA himself and his principal followers are ready for immediate flight.

It is reported that MARQUEZ had been defeated near Guadalajara by DEGOLLADO.

Active efforts were being made to procure money, but with very little success. The Archbishop refused to advance another cent.

A triumvirate was spoken of, the ultra Conservatives supporting Father MIRAMDA, JOAQUIN and Father MUNGUIA. The moderate Conservatives, of the school of CUEVAS, spoke of ROBLES, ECHEGARAY and ELOZUAGA. The Progreso has been informed by a respectable citizen of Vera Cruz that a document soliciting a European Protectorate for Mexico was sent by the Zuloaga Government in the last English steamer. The Progreso does not state what Government the application was made to.

The Progreso, of the 21st, states that on the previous day the courier dispatched to the capital, on the 14th, by the United States Consul, returned to Vera Cruz, bringing news to the 18th. The Zuloaga faction was reduced to the last extremity of destitution, and a letter says that "Here reigns the most terrible discord." In the same letter it is stated that ZULOAGA had received telegraphic dispatches from Guadalajara, announcing that his forces, under MARQUEZ, had been routed by the Liberals under DEGOLLADO.

The correspondent of the Picayune writes from VERA CRUZ, on the 21st ult.:

"The two contending parties in this country seem to keep in the old beaten track of maintaining a 'masterly inactivity.' The reports from the interior are so contradictory and unreliable that they are not worth giving. For the last two weeks everybody has been anxious to hear the result of an important battle between the Liberal troops, under Gen. DEGOLLADO, and the Conservators, under Gen. MIRAMON, near Guadalajara; but if the battle has been fought, they keep it to themselves. We can hear nothing of it here. Many seem to think this battle will decide 'the fate of the war.'

By letters received in this city, from reliable sources in the city of Mexico, we are informed that, a few days since, a large number of bars of silver, valued at $125,000, were found in the privy of the house recently occupied by Mr. FORSYTH, the American Minister, and that it is supposed to belong to Mr. LOMBARDA, a wealthy man who was for several months under the protection of Mr. FORSYTH.

The same writer says that, on the 14th, Dr. SAUNTOR was arrested at the city of Mexico, under some pretence, and thrown into prison, but that he had been released. He was of Mr. FORSYTH's retinue on his return home, but has again turned up at the city of Mexico, in what seems to be a mysterious manner."

WASHINGTON, Monday, Jan. 3.

The Picayune's correspondent at Mexico, under date of Dec. 20, says that "Guadalajara has been retaken by the Government. It fell on the 15th, after an attack of one day. The Liberals, with all their advantages of superior force, good positions, fortifications, artillery, etc., have been whipped and retired. The condition of the country is daily growing worse."

FROM KANSAS.

Further Intelligence from the Gold Regions—Confirmation of Previous Reports.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

LAWRENCE, Wednesday, Dec. 22, 1858.

This evening another bulletin goes forth, dispensing news from the gold mines. Mr. CHAS. NICHOLS, of the Lawrence party, and eight other gentlemen, arrived in our city this evening direct from the South Platte, since Nov. 20. Their train consisted of two wagons and nine mules. J. D. PARKSON, an old steamboat Captain, whose salary has usually been $900 per month, is one of the party, and he states that he is resolved to go back early in the Spring rather than follow his old occupation at his former salary. They all tell the same elating story that has been so often published, that there is plenty of gold—everybody that goes can get it, but it will cost labor.

About 300 California miners had arrived at the mines before Mr. NICHOLS left, and were, in common with others who winter there, building houses, cutting wood, and preparing for the threatening cold. About 1,000 were there in all. They had all abandoned mining, except a stranger occasionally went prospecting a short distance. The snow was about six inches deep when he left, but it gradually became less, and after fifty miles of travel it all disappeared. Afterwards, they often met with snow of a few inches. It snows much oftener and more in depth near the mountains than on the plains upon this side of them. They met but few trains on the way. They saw one party of 150 that will be obliged to camp until Spring about 150 miles above Fort Kearney. They have plenty of provisions, can stop at Trading Posts and encamp without inconvenience, as they are mostly from Illinois, and have followed rafting, boating and camping much of their lives.

Mr. N. thinks that about $15,000 has been taken out in all, the most of those now there having arrived since the suspension of operations. The district over which he found gold in his prospecting is three hundred miles by fifty, being the longest north and south. He went out among the mountains, about 45 miles west of Pike's Peak, and 100 above the confluence of Cherry Creek with the Platte, where he found the best diggings in all; and probably that will be found the best paying section in the mines next year, provided parties go in large enough to protect themselves from the Utah Indians, who are extremely hostile. This entire country is not all, of course, adapted to successful agriculture, but at least one-fifth of it is of the most desirable quality for that pursuit.

They report that the Platte can be turned and water power obtained at many points, and the large operations carried on by capitalists with machinery, will pay much better than working singly by hand. Quarts had been found a few days before they left containing small veins of gold. The usual depth of finding gold where they prospected, was from two to five feet, but no deep diggings had been found. Gold could be found anywhere along the Platte, upon the bars. They also found it equally abundant along the Upper Arkansas, and all Californians say that the prospect is far better there now than it was in California any time the first year. These gentlemen all intend to return as early as traveling will admit in the Spring.

Thus the evidences continue to multiply, until there [illegible] no room left for reasonable doubt that gold, enough [illegible] is there, and can be had for the digging. No [illegible] news since my last from Fort Scott. It is expected that the Legislature will adjourn to this place [illegible] organizing at Lecompton, to please Gen. SHARP. [illegible] most superior accommodations can now be furnished here. The Eldridge House is capable of [illegible] two hundred at a single table, and of lodging [illegible] the same number—all in the best of style. Whoever stops there, would forget they were in Kansas.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The New British Minister—The Filibuster Failure—Mr. Nugent and the California Indian Superintendency—The Case—Erie and Twenty, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Jan. 3.

Letters received at the British Legation, four days ago, announce that Lord LYONS will arrive here early in February. The report that Lord ABERDEEN is to be the successor of Lord NAPIER is a mistake. Lord A. is yet in his minority. NAPIER succeeds ABERDEEN, now Lord DUNFERMLINE, who retires on a pension. This fact may account for the error in names.

Dispatches from Mobile to Lord NAPIER announce the arrival of the British war steamer Basilisk, with one hundred and forty shipwrecked Americans. Our Government has no official information on the subject, nor any dispatches from Mexico, as anticipated.

The Filibuster Bureaux here wear long faces to-day. They are less disheartened, however, at the wreck of the Susan than at the fact that it has involved the premature disclosure of their plans. They profess still to hope that sufficient force reached Omoa in the other vessels to carry out the programme, as telegraphed you last night.

The late order of General HARNEY, in opening the country west of Cascade Mountains to settlement by the whites, in advance of the ratification of the Indian treaties, is approved by Secretary FLOYD.

Count SARTIGES had a short interview with Secretary CASS this morning, prior to leaving for New-York.

Lord NAPIER has made representations to our Government, complaining of the address published by Mr. NUGENT just before leaving Victoria, which is deemed by the British authorities to have been full of premeditated, unprovoked insults. As the Special Agent's commission expired at the meeting of Congress, he cannot well be officially rebuked for his course.

It is rumored that if NUGENT fails to get the Indian Superintendency, he will return to California and become the Douglas candidate for Governor of that State in opposition to the regular Democratic nominee. As Mr. BUCHANAN is more easily influenced by fear than anything else save personal abuse, the above rumor may be set down as a strong argument in favor of Mr. NUGENT's appointment.

The Administration continues to express much solicitude for the fate of the Ynisaari Treaty. If it comes back from Nicaragua, it will be at once transmitted to the Senate for ratification; but it is certain to encounter serious if not fatal opposition.

Its opponents urge that its provisions for the landing of an American force to protect the Transit afford a precedent for similar treaties already negotiating by England and France, and that the practical result is the establishment of a joint protectorate over the country, under cover of which either of the European parties thereto may at any time land force enough to take possession of and hold the country.

Any arrangement of this sort is also considered inconsistent with our doctrine forbidding the interposition of European powers in the affairs of the American continent.

A larger representation is expected to-morrow. After a session of over three hours, devoted to the organization and permanent business, the meeting adjourned till to-morrow. Our Washington Correspondence.

REPLY TO THE CARD OF LIEUTENANT BARTLETT.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Jan. 1, 1859.

I inclose copy of a card published by Lieutenant WASHINGTON A. BARTLETT, in relation to my paragraph of the 28th December, condemning the course of the Executive in not restoring Lieut. B. to the Naval service, whence he had been dropped by the Retiring Board. The Editor of the Union introduces the Lieutenant's card with the following remarks:

"We invite attention to the following letter, which we publish by permission of the writer, as a complete denial of one of the many falsehoods sent from here by 'Washington correspondents.' It will also be observed that, although this slander was published in New-York under a telegraphic head, it was in reality sent from here by mail, as is the case with a large portion of the 'special dispatches' coined in this city for circulation at a distance."

The reader who takes the trouble to peruse Lieut. BARTLETT's card, and to revert to my letter in the TIMES of the 30th ult., will see that the Editor of the Union is guilty of two willful falsehoods, contained in the italicised words of the foregoing extract. Lieut. B. does not deny one word of any statement that I have made,—and the whole purpose of his card is to relieve himself of the suspicion that my publication was suggested directly or indirectly by him. Thus I fasten falsehood number one. The paragraph which Lieut. B. gratuitously disavows, was published at the end of a long letter, professing truly to have been sent by mail, and published two days after its date,—which stamps as a deliberate falsehood the malicious statement that it was pretended to have been telegraphed. In the face of this exhibition of the strange aberrations of the Union Editor, his reflections upon the character of Washington correspondence will have their due weight upon the public mind, and no more. Certainly that weight will not break the camel's back.

I will not say anything unkind of Lieutenant BARTLETT,—for he has suffered so long and so keenly under the load of obloquy unjustly imposed upon him by the action of the Retiring Board, that he is hardly to be held responsible for such an indiscretion as his Card involves. He denies no fact of mine, and cannot deny any. When those facts are denied, I shall be found prepared to sustain them to the least shadow of the last hair. It is quite true that I had had no communication with Lieut. B., directly or indirectly, in regard to the subject of my paragraph. The Texas correspondence is written in the interest of the public; and the assumption that it is dictated at any time to serve any individual purpose, is as gratuitous as it is offensive. As to Lieut. B.'s individually expressed opinion of the action of the President, I have nothing to say. It is Christian-like to kiss the hand that smites us,—and in that reflection the Lieutenant has his reward. I may be permitted the suggestion, however, that the Executive publicly acknowledges the damaging character of my shot, and his consciousness of the necessity for explaining away my facts, in thus eagerly parading through the columns of the official organ, the vindicatory opinion of one who—by officialic record and action—he has endeavored to stamp "no gentleman," and has condemned to perpetual exclusion from the profession in which he has expended the energies of his life.

My imputations upon the President stand and will stand. It is true that the record of Lieut. BARTLETT's trial contains no stain upon his personal or official character. It is true that he has been pursued by a relentless personal malignity. It is true that the secret of his persecution grows out of his conscientious regard for his moral obligations, which forbade him to display upon the "field of honor" the courage which, in the language of the President of the Court, was "tried and proved" on the field of action. It is true that the President has cordial affection for a duellist,—and all Lieut. B.'s injudicious disclaimers,—wrung out of him evidently by the fear that the suspicion of collusion with me in my publication would increase the Executive malice, and so interfere with the efforts he is still making for restoration—do not affect the case in the least. A fact or two in addition, will still more closely fasten the blistering statements of my original publication. Lieut. BARTLETT may not be aware of it, but every member of the Cabinet is, that his name was at one time on the list for restoration, having been placed there by the joint action of the Secretary of the Navy and the Attorney-General; yet, at the eleventh hour, some secretly-whispered poison instilled in the President's ear, caused it to be stricken off. With this statement for Lieut. B.'s edification, I leave him to judge what his chances of restoration now are, and to the public to decide how much or how little, in his innocent heart, he must sympathize with the severest denunciation of the Executive.

One word, and I am done. The law under which the late restorations to the Navy were made expired to-day. No further restorations can be made, therefore, except by authority of a special act of Congress. Even the President has not the power to nominate to fill a vacancy occurring in the future by death or resignation, because the late restorations have swollen the Naval establishment beyond the limit provided by the general law, and the Executive is restrained from filling new vacancies until these accidental causes shall have reduced the Naval list to the usual standard. Thus, it will be seen, that the President, in striking Lieut. BARTLETT from the list of restored, inflicted a final and fatal stab. If the latter should be restored by special act of Congress; or, if Mr. BUCHANAN, having received a certificate of character from the late Lieutenant, should now be generous enough to aid him in prosecuting his claim for justice, no one will be more agreeably disappointed than your correspondent. S.

The following is the card of Lieut. BARTLETT, referred to above:

WASHINGTON, Friday, Dec. 31, 1858.

DEAR SIR: I hasten to deny, in the most emphatic manner, all knowledge of, connection with, or sympathy in, the expressions contained in a Washington letter, dated the 28th inst., and published in THE NEW-YORK TIMES of yesterday, over the well-known signature of "S.," so far as said communication reflects upon His Excellency, the President, directly, or upon yourself, or the Hon. Judges BLACK and HOLT, by implication, and even as to any resident at the Executive mansion, or any person who, to my knowledge, has the entree there, and particularly as to every member of the Cabinet and President's household. I first learned of this communication by having it handed to me after 10 o'clock last night. Its author, "S.," I have not seen or communicated with since I left Washington last Spring. Although dated the 28th, I learned it was mailed hence on the 25th, two days before I arrived here. I have not given utterance by word or pen—no! not even in the privacy of my own family—to any such imputations or sentiments as are contained in that communication, in reference to the President. My sufferings have been too great to find relief in any such way. I rely upon the power of truth, and it will yet prevail. I deprecate the publication of the letter alluded to. I repudiate it and any such course of defence as is contained in its allusions to the President. I am in no way responsible for those expressions. As to the personal allusions or difficulties set up by it, I shall know how to treat them. The record which you have had under consideration proves, by the evidence of the President of the Court, that my personal courage was tried, and proved, as you stated it, "in an eminent degree" on the field of action.

My personal issues have been too independent for attention pending the struggle in which I have been actively engaged for the past three years; they shall now have due attention.

I earnestly request that you bring this, my disavowal of that letter, to the attention of the President.

Very respectfully, I am Sir, your obedient servant,

WASHINGTON A. BARTLETT.

Hon. ISAAC TOUCEY.

NEW-YEAR'S DAY IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL—THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Jan. 2, 1859.

New-Year's day was celebrated here yesterday with much energy and industry, if one may judge from the crowds of both sexes thronging the avenues and streets, on foot or in carriages, making the round of calls. The 1st of January as a holiday is gradually becoming a decided "institution" at the capital, although a few years ago the mansions of private citizens were not thrown open for visitors after the New-York custom, and no one except the President and Cabinet officers expected to receive more calls on that day than any other. Then, "Christmas" was the grand festival and carnival—while now New-York herself can scarcely present a more joyous festive occasion than the Metropolis did on yesterday. Here, too, the ladies very generally accompany the lords of creation in their rounds, thus checking excess, and adding brilliancy, beauty and refinement to the scene.

The Executive mansion, of course, continues to be the chief point of attack at this season; but it was subject of much remark that a far less number of visitors called there yesterday than upon any similar occasion for many years. The arrangements for order were as perfect as Louis NAPOLEON could have wished,—indeed were somewhat after his order. Lines of policemen were stationed from the door to the President, so that every person who entered was compelled to pass at once into the presence of that august personage, or pass out. Heretofore it has been the custom of many persons who did not care to call upon the President himself, but whose visiting friends desired to do so, to go up to the Executive mansion with them, set them in the "line of safe precedents" towards His Excellency, and then turn their own steps direct to the East Room to await them there. Yesterday's arrangement put an end to all this,—and the man who didn't choose to play pump-handle with the President's arm, was compelled to vacate the premises forthwith. Of course those who felt that in the absence of personal regard or respect for His Excellency their approach with a smile and a friendly greeting would be rank hypocrisy, preferred to retire; and there were not a few in that category.

A newspaper correspondent says he had his pocket picked while in the immediate vicinity of the President, notwithstanding the Napoleonic array of detectives,—but the fact that he claims to have had over five dollars in the abstracted purse—which would have been entirely unprofessional—must be confessed to throw serious doubt upon the entire story. Arrival of the California Overland Mail.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, Jan. 3.

The Overland Mail dates, 6th ult., arrived here Saturday night, twenty-six days out.

There were six passengers, among whom was Major ENCRY, who confirms the previous accounts of the Gila River gold mines.

It is said that considerable emigration is going on from Sonora to California.

The mail station at Concha River, Texas, has been attacked by the Camanche Indians, and thirty-one mules run off.

Ex-President COMONFORT, General CORREA and LEWIS HANZELMAN, of Mexico, arrived here on Saturday.

Later from Utah and the Plains.

Correction.

The Secret Convention of Iron Masters, held today, is at Philadelphia. The dispatch in the morning papers in reference thereto was dated Washington, by mistake.

The Case of the "Wanderer"—An Important Point Decided.

The examination of the parties arrested for the importation of slaves by the Wanderer is in progress at Savannah, before the United States Commissioner. On Thursday, Dec. 30, an important question, bearing upon the merits of the case, was decided by the Commissioner. On the previous day the District-Attorney requested the Court to charge that the internal transportation of recently imported Africans was not a crime under the laws of the United States, and that a witness who had been engaged in such transportation could answer questions in reference thereto without criminating himself. The Court decided that the words "coastwise transportation," in the Act of Congress, did not embrace inland transportation; but there were other acts, (which he read,) that left such doubt on his mind that he did not feel at liberty to instruct the witness that he could answer questions without criminating himself.

Mr. GARNER, the United States Attorney, addressed the Court, stating that as prosecuting officer of the Government, he had investigated the law fully in reference to the prosecution of Capt. CHESTER and his steamer, and had become satisfied that he had done nothing that made him responsible to the law. He thought something was due to his opinion as the representative of the Government upon whom devolved the prosecution of Captain CHESTER and the entire management and control of the case on the part of the Government. If the decisions made by the Court were to prevail as law for the government of his trial, the ends of justice will be defeated, all efforts to maintain the laws of the land would be powerless, and the law itself a dead letter upon the statute-book.

The Court arrested the Attorney, stating that its decision had been pronounced and was not the subject of argument.

The examination then proceeded. Capt. CHESTER, of the steamer Lamar, testified that he went with his steamer from Brunswick to a point opposite Jekyl Island; saw there some negroes and white persons; the negroes were not American negroes; his boat transported the negroes who were on the south end of the Island; their number, he heard, was about three hundred—does not know how many; they were put on board the steamer by the white men; saw the mast-head of a vessel about three or four miles off; did not recognize her as the Wanderer; this was on the 31 of December; there were six or eight white men engaged in putting the negroes on board—perhaps more; took them on board in the day-time; witness carried the slaves up the Savannah river to a point some fourteen miles above Savannah on the South Carolina side; could not describe the place, as he was unacquainted with the river; white men went along, the negroes being in their charge, some of them the same parties as assisted in putting the negroes on board at Jekyl Island; did not deliver the negroes to any one, but ran alongside the bank, and the parties having them in charge took them ashore.

Witness further stated that those who put the negroes on board appeared to be foreigners. Did not know that BROWN took part in the direction of the negroes; left him with the cargo up the Savannah River. In answer to the question, how and by whom he was employed to take the boat to Brunswick, witness stated that Capt. STEVENSON came into the store of CLARKSON & CUMMINGSON about eight or nine o'clock at night, and stated to witness that he had employed the steamer Lamar to go below, but would not need him as they had their own Captain to take charge of her. The person he understood to be Capt. DUMBARTON. When the steamer was ready, Capt. DUMBARTON was not there, and to prevent delay, witness went with the steamer himself. The person taken on board at Brunswick was Capt. THOMAS BURRS. Left all the white men who went up the river at the place where the negroes were landed. Mr. LAMAR did not go up to the landing. He was landed this side, at a plantation belonging to a gentleman with a French name, about seven or eight miles above the city. Capt. TUCKER and the prisoner (BROWN) were landed with the negroes.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAVANNAH, Monday, Jan. 3.

The Wanderer case was resumed to-day. Doctor DARE testified that he visited some negroes on Montmollin's plantation, sixteen miles up the river, who could not speak English. They spoke Spanish. He could not say they were Africans.

The prisoners were committed for trial.

Mount Vernon Festival.

SALISBURY, CONN., Thursday, Dec. 30, 1858.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The festival in aid of the Mount Vernon Fund occurred here yesterday. The receipts were $356, which is a little more than ten cents for each inhabitant of the town. This is comparatively one of the best efforts yet made in this good cause, and fully indorses the patriotism of our enterprising ladies.

On Christmas Eve Ex-Governor HOLLEY delivered a very interesting lecture on the Life of WASHINGTON, followed by an appeal which not a little augmented the substantial results of the festival.

Let each country-town do half as well, and the Tomb of the Father of our Country will soon be in the dutiful hands of our country's daughters. Y.

The Late Fraud upon Emigrants.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF EMIGRATION, NEW-YORK, Monday, Jan. 3, 1859.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Please correct the error in your paper of the 30th ult., in the report of the proceedings of the Commissioners of Emigration, in the statement that one of the fraudulent tickets for inland passage through the United States issued in Liverpool, was issued by SARGENT & CURTIS, as it should have been SARGENT & SMITH, Mr. CURTIS having some time since dissolved all connection with SARGENT, the issuer of said tickets.

Election of Presidents in Both Branches.

MAYOR TIEMANN'S MESSAGE.

Board of Aldermen.

ORGANIZATION OF THE NEW BOARD—ALDERMAN MCSPEDON ELECTED PRESIDENT, AND E. F. VALENTINE CLERK—RESIGNATION OF ALDERMAN CLANCY.

At 12 o'clock M. yesterday the Aldermen's chamber was densely thronged, and a few minutes after that hour the members of the new Board were in their seats.

Alderman TUMBY moved that Alderman ADAMS be appointed Chairman pro tem. It was carried, and Alderman ADAMS took the chair.

Alderman BRADLEY moved that the Board proceed to the election of a permanent President. The Board agreed to this, and Aldermen BRADLEY and SMITH were appointed tellers. There were 14 votes polled, of which Alderman THOMAS MCSPEDON received 8 and Alderman OWEN WOODS 6.

The Chairman announced that Alderman MCSPEDON would preside over the Board for the ensuing year, and Alderman OGDEN moved that the choice be declared unanimous, which was carried. Aldermen BOOTS and O

As stated above, the expenses for Police in 1858 were $645,000
The amount raised for the same purpose in 1859 was 995,000
Being an increase of $350,000
Or 54 per cent, notwithstanding all the expenses of providing the Station-houses—furnishing them with fuel, stationery, and other necessary articles—are still paid by the Municipal Government, under the direction of the Common Council.

In 1853 the sum raised by tax for the Governors of the Almshouse, was $385,000
In 1858 it was 705,000
Being an increase of $320,000
Or, 83 per cent. over 1853, without including the liquor license fees, which were previously paid into the City treasury, but which are now paid over to the Governors of the Almshouse Department.

The amount raised for Schools in 1853, was $905,000
In 1858, it was 1,330,013
Being an increase of $422,013
—Or 103 per cent.

In 1853, no taxes were raised on account of the Central Park, the Commissioners of Records, and only $300,000 for State tax. While in 1858, there was raised for the Central Park interest $365,700
Commissioners of Records 98,000
State tax 1,172,646
Making a total of $1,636,346
Being an increase of $1,336,346, for these three objects alone since 1853.

The comparative increase of taxation of 1858 over 1853, will also be shown by the following statement:
In 1853, the aggregate amount of taxes was $6,000,000
From which should be deducted the excess of the tax raised in 1853 to supply the deficiencies of former years, over the amount raised in 1852 to supply the deficiency of 1850 ..... $49,387
Leaving a balance properly for 1853, of $5,951,353
Of this sum $2,700,328 was for expenditures within the jurisdiction of the Common Council; and $3,236,936 was for expenditures not under their direction.

Deducting the police expenses for 1853, $615,000, the amount for all other objects under the jurisdiction of the Common Council was $2,184,328; and for expenditures for Police expenses and for objects not within the control of the Common Council, in 1858 the amount was $2,205,936. In 1858 the total amount of taxes raised was $8,861,001, from which deduct as above the excess of the tax raised in 1858 to supply the deficiencies of former years over the amount to be raised in 1859 to supply the deficiences of 1858, about $100,000, leaving the balance of $8,521,001. Of this sum there was raised for objects within the jurisdiction of the Common Council, and for Police expenses and other objects not under the direction of the Common Council, $5,932,665. It will thus appear that while the taxes raised for objects within the control of the Municipal Government have been increased during the last five years by $604,305, or 18 per cent., the taxes raised for objects over which the Common Council have no direct control, have increased during the same period $3,290,170 or more than 102 per cent. It must be borne in mind also that all the objects provided for by the Common Council in 1853, with the single exception of Police expenses, are still provided for by them, and are included in the above statement, and that in the comparative statement given above the Police expenses of 1853 were added to the items not under the control of the Common Council at that time.

During this period, from 1853 to 1858, the increased valuation of property subject to taxation has been 28½ per cent., or but little more than the expenses under the legislative control of the Common Council; but the other items over which they have no control have in the meantime so largely increased as to make the total aggregate increase of taxation more than 70 per cent. In connection with this subject I may add that while the Charter of the City has placed numerous checks upon the disbursement of moneys still left under the control of the Common Council, and which it appears is quite the smaller part of the aggregate amount raised by taxation, yet the larger part of this amount is disbursed by several Commissioners and public bodies, without any such restrictions of law or limitations other than the regulations of those bodies respectively, which they may dispense with at pleasure.

REFORM RECOMMENDED.

So far, however, as you have the control of the disposition of the funds raised for the use of the City Government, I trust you will exercise the powers conferred upon you with that care and scrutiny which the public interests demand. There are several of the accounts in which I have no doubt, by the practice of a wise discretion, a considerable saving can be effected without in the least degree impairing the efficiency of the public service, neglecting the improvement of the City, or the care of its property. Appropriations are frequently made for work or services which could be dispensed with, and extra allowances are often made beyond the amounts that could be claimed. Although generally [illegible] are for small su[illegible] tions, yet [illegible] may and reform, which will [illegible] action in our annual expenses, and the example [illegible] be worthy the imitation of those other bodies who now have the control, beyond your interference, of so large a part of the annual expenditures.

With such efforts for reform, in restraining extravagant expenditures, I promise you my hearty cooperation to the full extent of the powers conferred upon me by the Charter of the City and the laws of the State.

Notwithstanding the increase in taxation, the general financial condition of the City still remains sound and healthful, to be ascribed, no doubt, in a great measure, to the wisdom of the Common Council, which projected and established the sinking funds, as well for the payment of the permanent debt, contracted by the City, as for the interest on the same. Under the operation of this system, a great part of the original debt, authorized for the construction of the Croton Aqueduct, and its reservoirs, and for the distribution of water through the City, has been paid off, or the stock issued therefor has come into the possession of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

THE CITY DEBT.

The following statement will exhibit the total debt of the City on the 1st January inst. On all accounts, as nearly as I can determine, the permanent City debt, redeemable from the Sinking Fund, is $14,400,898
Of City stocks and securities held by the Commissioners 1,437,218
Leaving the actual permanent debt $8,963,679
The funded debt redeemable yearly from taxation is $1,224,000
And Bonds of the County of New-York 10,000
Treasury loan account or Revenue Bonds issued in anticipation of taxes and now outstanding 4,398,750
Central Park Assessment Bonds 1,600,000
Assessment Bonds 1,095,700
Making a total of $16,365,129

The permanent debt redeemable from the Sinking Fund, as above stated, consisted on the 1st of January last, of the following items:

Bonds and mortgages	866,206 26—$4,437,218 26
Amount unprovided for Jan. 1, 1859	$9,963,679 74

This debt amounted on the first of January last, less sinking funds and securities held by the Commissioners, to $10,773,504.

It will be seen from the foregoing statement that during the last year it has been reduced $809,814. This has effected by the payment of water stock due on the first day of January last $2,011,970
From which deduct additional stock issued beyond exchanges or payment of such stocks, for Central Park new reservoir $742,400

The ordinance establishing the Sinking Fund cannot be amended without the consent of the Legislature, unless by setting apart and appropriating for the purposes of the Fund additional revenue. The whole amount of the original water stock issued was $14,400,898
Of this there has been redeemed and canceled as it became due $5,412,000
And there is now held of it by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund ..... 3,548,181—8,960,098
Leaving yet outstanding $5,615,938

This does not include the stock which has been recently issued for the land taken for the new Reservoir and for the construction of that work, which is $1,029,100.

In 1869 the sum of $2,500,000 of water stock becomes due, but after that no stock is payable until 1870, when $3,000,000 is due. A large part of these stocks, however, is held by the Commissioners, on which interest is received by them for the benefit of the Fund, the ordinance establishing the same providing that none of the stock shall be canceled until the final redemption thereof.

It will thus be seen, that after the redemption of the stock due in 1869, the payments into the Sinking Fund will be more than sufficient to redeem the stock as it shall become due, especially when it is considered that all the real estate of the City, valued at least at $30,000,000, is pledged to this Fund, and the net proceeds of any sales thereof are paid into it.

By the same ordinance a fund for the payment of the interest on this debt was created, to which is pledged the following revenues of the City, and which have yielded the past year as follows:

On account of pier feet of Twenty-ninth-street, East River	$753 00
Croton Water rents	186,013 87
Jessup's Courts	10,637 00
Marine Court	5,289 02
Police Courts	554 52
Penalties	7,201 08
Licenses (First Marshal)	10,389 00
Mayoralty fees	958 70
Interest on Bonds and Mortgages	37,328 02
Sales of street manure	2,060 68
Common house rent	25 00
Dock and slip rent	145,002 58
Ferry rent	104,418 32
Ground rent	23,139 92
House rent	10,148 09
Night soil contract	1,194 66
Total	$1,149,015 45
From this fund has been paid interest on the several stocks of the City, amounting to	$778,419 63
Leaving a surplus of receipts of	370,595 42
The surplus on this amount, Dec. 30, 1857, was	$2,046,017 19
Making the available surplus, Dec. 30, 1858	$2,416,612 61

A large part of this surplus has, however, been advanced to the sinking fund, for the payment of the City debt, and invested by the Commissioners in stocks or other securities, now held by them for that purpose.

The debt of the City redeemable from taxation is as follows:

Five per cent. Public Building Stock No. 3, payable in annual installments of $50,000, from 1859 to 1868	$400,000
Five per cent. Stock for Docks and Slips, payable in annual installments of $50,000, from 1867 to 1876	500,000
Five per cent. Public Education Stock, payable in 1873	154,000
Six per cent. Public Stock for Rebuilding Tompkins Market, payable in annual installments of $17,000, from 1860 to 1869	170,000
Amount	$1,224,000

The Public Building Stock was created by virtue of several acts of the Legislature for the erection of public buildings and the construction of wharves, piers and slips.

The sum of $12,257 is to be raised by tax each year until there shall be a sufficient amount to redeem the Educational Stock in 1873. This Stock was created for the purpose of paying off the mortgages on the property transferred by the Public School Society for the use of the Board of Education.

The interest on this debt, as well as on the Central Park Improvement Stock, is to be paid by taxation, in accordance with the laws authorizing the same. As I am informed, however, for two or three years past payments have been made on this account from the Sinking Fund Interest account. The Charter provides that the Common Council shall not have the power to borrow any sums of money whatever on the credit of the Corporation, except in anticipation of the revenue of the year in which such loan shall be made, unless authorized by a special act of the Legislature. It is under this provision that Revenue Bonds, in anticipation of the annual taxes, have been issued. For the reason that the expenditures from the Treasury on account of the City Government are principally made before the taxes are collected, it becomes necessary to include in the annual tax levy an item for the payment of interest on these bonds. The amount required, according to the estimate for the tax levy for this year, will be $320,000.

CENTRAL-PARK ASSESSMENT BONDS.

The amount of this debt consisted, on the 1st inst., of $1,600,000, payable on 5th February, 1859.

Bonds were issued for the purpose of paying awards for property included in the Central Park, which the [illegible]

ASSESSMENT BONDS.

I am informed by statements presented to me by the book-keeper and stock-clerk of the Finance Department, that the amount of Assessment bonds now outstanding is $1,095,700, as follows:

6 per cent. Assessment Bonds, payable in 1861	$789,600
7 per cent. Assessment Bonds, payable in 1862	306,100
Total	$1,095,700

And that for the redemption of these bonds, or those which may hereafter be issued, there are assessments in arrears amounting to $3,199,317 73
besides property purchased by the City for assessments, amounting to a considerable sum.

On the first instant these arrearages were made up of the following accounts:

Sewers	$119,796 35
Leases on lots	9,873 16
Arrears of Assessments	1,365,612 80
Fencing vacant lots	1,137 41
Street opening	655,027 53
Street paving	403,167 81
Belgian pavement	50,213 08
Central Park	594,489 60
Total	$3,199,317 73

This amount includes not only the arrearages with the Clerk of Arrears, but the other assessment in the hands of the several collectors of assessments.

It is, however, the apparent amount, as it is subject to considerable deduction by reason of non-payment into the City Treasury by former Collectors of Assessments of moneys collected by them, and by the fact that certain assessments are invalid on account of frauds or irregularities, so that the City cannot recover from the owners of property the amounts paid to contractors for the improvements, and that overpayments have also been made to contractors.

A large amount is also due for interest on the valid liens, interest being collected at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum, from the confirmation of assessment on all items not paid before their return to the Finance Department as arrears, the City receives an excess of interest over that paid by it, which will, to some extent, compensate it for the loss on invalid assessments.

During the past year the Collector of Arrears has received and paid into the Treasury arrearages, including interest, to the amount of about $1,000,000. A large amount of arrearages remain, however, uncollected, as additional returns of arrears are continually made by the Collectors of Assessments.

FRAUDS ON THE CITY TREASURY.

Parties have, in numerous instances, produced the receipts of former Collectors, although the lien upon the property has not been discharged. Investigation of the accounts of the Collectors of Assessments has been made by the Street Department, and reports thereon have been made of the deficiencies discovered. A full and detailed report of the accounts of this Bureau, from the year 1852 to the present time will be submitted to you, at an early day, by the Street Commissioner. The Joint Committee of Accounts have also made a partial examination of these accounts. I deem it my duty to call your attention to the great importance of directing the Corporation Counsel to take immediate steps for the recovery of the sums illegally retained, and of such other sums as have been illegally obtained from the City Treasury.

In this connection I would call your attention to the propriety of applying for some legislation, by which the City may be enabled to collect the fair value of improvements, which should be paid by assessment, in cases in which by reason of some irregularity in the ordinance or contract the assessment has been or may be set aside.

In some cases these irregularities have been the result of fraud, in others of neglect to comply strictly with the statute, and in others contracts which were made in good faith and supposed to be valid, will, according to recent decisions of the Courts, be held to be invalid. For instance, it has been held that a contract given to the party who appeared to be the lowest bidder upon the estimated quantities of work to be done, but who upon the development in the performance of the work of the actual quantities, proved to be not the lowest bidder, upon applying the terms of his bid to the latter quantity was void.

In many cases large payments have been advanced on contracts which are irregular; but, in my judgment, there is no reason why the owners of property should be released from paying the fair value of the improvements. I would recommend that an application be made to the Legislature for a Commission, to be selected by the Mayor and Comptroller, to determine the fair amount that should be paid by the owners of property in cases where assessments have been set aside for irregularities, and to determine the amount to be assessed in cases of works now partially completed, for which assessments have not yet been made, and in regard to which similar irregularities exist.

THE TAX LEVY.

By the estimates of the Departments, the tax levy of 1859 will amount to over $6,000,000, for all purposes connected with the City Government. In this sum is included $600,578 53 for arrearages of 1857 and 1858. This item, although less than that provided for the last year, is still more than it should be, and more than a correct system of expenditure among the several branches of the City Government, and the various Boards and Commissioners created by the Legislature, would warrant. This amount will, however, be increased by claims for judgments and other arrearages not included by the Comptroller.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

The item for Common Schools is in excess of that [illegible] by $120,000—deducting for last year's appropriation the sum of $300,000 for the purchase of sites, this year the Board of Education have called for $1,340,000. The expenses of this Department have been gradually increasing from year to year since 1850, when they were but $327,000. Whatever may be the cause, I am satisfied that under a less complex system the children of the City would have as ample opportunities for receiving a good education, and these expenses be largely reduced.

In my annual Message of last year I called the attention of the Common Council particularly to this subject, and suggested whether the increasing expenditures of the Common Schools of the City were not in some degree owing to the number of local Boards, each controlling the schools of their respective Wards, independently of each other, and to a great extent of the Board of Education; and that, if, instead of these numerous local Boards, the whole system were under the control and government of a single Board of intelligent and educated citizens, whether a great reduction of expenditure would not be effected without in the least impairing the efficiency of the system. This subject is one worthy of your consideration, and I trust that you will early take action thereon, with the view of applying to the Legislature for some change by which the means of sound public education can be procured at a less expense. There are also in the budget for 1859 two items not under the control of any local authorities. I allude to the Common Schools State and State Mill tax.

The amounts required for these two purposes are respectively $298,895 71
or a total of $1,227,945 71

By the adoption of the system of levying and collecting the State tax for schools upon property, and distributing it upon population, our City pays more than its just proportion of the amount raised by the whole State. In this way we have paid, during the last seven years $1,284,516 19 more than our fair proportion, while this year the excess over a fair apportionment will be $183,295 71. So also in regard to the State tax. This City has paid, and continues to pay, under the present system of the valuations of property, an unequal and burdensome tax. If an equalization in the valuations of property in the whole State were made, this City would be relieved of a large amount of taxation. I called the attention of the Common Council to these two subjects in my last annual Message, and would again earnestly invite their attention thereto, with the view of obtaining legislative relief from this extensive taxation.

THE STATE TAX.

I also invite your attention to the expenses imposed upon the City for the collection of the State tax. It was supposed until recently that the State was willing to allow New-York some equivalent proportionate to the expenses borne by her in the collection of this large tax for the State; and in fact the Comptrollers of the State, previous to the present one, had done so since 1843. Five per cent. had been allowed by the several previous Comptrollers on the amount of the tax, for the expense of collection, and settlements had been thus made and passed between the Comptroller of the State and the Comptroller of this City, until the present year, when it was not only disallowed, but a suit was commenced by the Attorney-General, on behalf of the State, against the Chamberlain, to recover from the City the amount of the five per cent. which had been retained, and judgment was obtained a few months since in the Supreme Court, Albany County, against the City, for about $163,000, besides interest and costs.

The previous suit had been commenced in this City and County for this purpose, but it was discontinued, and immediately afterwards the one in which the judgment was obtained was instituted. It seems to me that if no authority exists in the Comptroller of the State to grant any allowance for the expense of collecting the tax, so far as this City and County is concerned, measures should at once be taken to obtain such an allowance for its collection.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

It will also be seen that for expenses of the Police will be required $1,043,198 40
For contingencies 5,000 00
Total $1,048,198 40
Being an increase of 159,650 10
Over last year, and of 433,000 00
Over the year 1853, when the Department and the expenses thereof were in some degree under the regulation and control of the Common Council. I am well aware that in a City so densely populated as ours, containing so large an amount of property to be protected, that the expenses of this Department must necessarily be large. But I believe that under a system different in some respects from the present one, the City could be as well protected at a much less expenditure for its Police force.

In this branch of service, as well as in many others, we have seen within the past few years a large increase of salaries, by which alone its expenses have been augmented at least 25 per cent. The Police who were appointed under the act first passed for their organization were paid but $500 a year, while the duties they performed, and the services received by the City from them were, I am well satisfied, equal to those of the present force. But as the Legislature has imposed the Metropolitan Act on the City, and fixed therein the pay of the Policemen, and other officers of the force, the City must submit, and continue to pay the heavy tax for its police protection, until the Legislature shall, in its wisdom, deem it proper to change the system, and give to the Common Council some control over the force, as well as the salaries to be paid to them.

OTHER EXPENDITURES.

There are also items for interest on different stocks [illegible] raised by tax, and [illegible] $618,000 to the heavy [illegible] ent. One of these [illegible] has continued [illegible] orbably as the ex[illegible] ave increased. This has arisen, as before stated, from the fact that the larger part of the annual appropriations are expended before any portion of the taxes of the year are received; by reason of which, the City is compelled to issue Revenue Bonds in anticipation of the tax, and on which the interest, of course, is to be paid. There is also an item of interest on Central Park Stock, amounting to $250,000, as well as $18,200 on Assessment Bonds and Tompkins-Market Building Stock. If the taxes were confirmed in January, instead of August or September, these large items for interest on Revenue Bonds would no doubt be reduced; or if, in place of raising the interest by tax on these and other bonds and stocks, the same were paid from the Sinking Fund interest account, a large saving in taxation would be effected. The revenues which are appropriated to the Sinking Fund Interest Account are now, as has been before shown, much more than sufficient to meet the interest properly chargeable to it. The revenues from water rents alone now more than meet the interest on the whole water debt, while the other sources of revenue paid into it are rapidly accumulating. I would respectfully suggest, therefore, that the Common Council should take into consideration the expediency of paying the interest on all the bonds issued by the City from the Sinking Fund Account, or of adopting some means by which the necessity of inserting these large items in the tax list for interest may be avoided.

RECEIPTS OF TAXES.

To exhibit more fully the sums which are received from taxes through the year, the following statement is submitted, being the monthly payments made to the Receiver of Taxes during the past year:

TAX OF 1857.

January	$240,627 41	May	$104,516 90
February	136,828 27	June	3,732 11
March	80,272 52	July	6,449 16
April	79,639 10	August	6,232 28
Total			$658,497 54
Interest on same			37,803 97
Total for the above eight months			$696,301 51

TAX OF 1858.

September	$929,409 73	November	$3,231,896 37
October	2,807,378 91	December	424,597 58
Total			$7,393,284 59
Discount allowed, less interest received			28,624 53
Amount actually received			$7,364,660 06
The tax levy of 1858, was			$8,620,926 72
Of which was collected the last four months of the year			7,393,284 59
Still unpaid			$1,282,178 66
Of the tax levy of 1857, which was			$8,055,608 55
There was collected in the four last months of that year			6,308,884 12
Due on 1st January, 1858			$1,746,124 43
Less discount after deducting interest received			33,368 69
Total			$1,712,755 74

It is thus seen that the payments of taxes are principally made in the months of October and November in each year, and after the greater part of the appropriations for the year have been expended.

If the tax levies were confirmed a month earlier for several years in succession, it would take but eight years before the same could be confirmed in January, the first of the financial year, without hardship to the taxpayer, and thus obviate in a great degree the necessity of issuing Revenue Bonds to so large an amount than the consequent payment of so great a sum for interest thereon.

The following will exhibit the taxes which are now in arrears since 1839, as near as they can, with certainty, be ascertained:

Taxes from 1839 to 1851 inclusive	378,602 00
Tax of 1852	275,941 57
Tax of 1853	140,283 84
Tax of 1854	247,466 25
Tax of 1855	324,151 45
Tax of 1856	641,324 98
Tax of 1857	896,518 29
Tax of 1858	1,282,178 66
Total	$3,681,598 13

The sums due for taxes prior to year ending 1851 are principally on personal estate. The subsequent years include mostly taxes on real estate.

Besides this large sum in arrears, as appears on the books in the Comptroller's office, there are personal taxes on the books in the office of the Receiver of Taxes which are not returned to the Comptroller's office, amounting to $1,466,279 in the months of October and November—thus making the total tax in arrears:
Personal $1,578,698
Real 3,661,525
Total $5,560,223

The necessity for the prompt collection of personal taxes is obvious from the consideration that such taxes are liable to be lost by removal from the City and changes in the circumstances of the persons taxed. The present laws are sufficient to enforce the prompt payment of these taxes, and it is to be hoped that the Comptroller will in future enforce prompt payment, and will take immediate steps to collect, as far as possible, the present arrearages. If energetic measures be taken, I have no doubt a large amount of the arrearages can be collected. The larger part of the personal taxes, except for the last three or four years, will no doubt be lost to the City.

Under the provisions of the Charter of 1857, the branch of the service connected with the receipt of the taxes is placed in the Finance Department, and in order to give that Department full control over this Bureau, the appointments, after the expiration of the term of office of the present incumbent, I give to the Comptroller.

The Finance Department has the control of all the fiscal concerns of the Corporation. In consequence of the want of accommodation for the enormous and important business entrusted to it, it has not been able to carry fully into effect the provisions of the Charter respecting it. As the rooms which are now used by the Street Commissioner will be soon vacated by that officer, they will be placed in possession of the Comptroller, and he will thus have the facilities to carry out properly that system, in regard to the management of his office, which the Charter requires. Rooms have been hired, and are now being fitted up, for the

in the building known as the Times' Building, opposite the Park. It is contemplated that here shall be located, under the immediate supervision of the head of this Department, the several Bureaux subordinate to it. Facilities will be afforded there not only for systematizing its business, but for properly protecting and safely securing all the important papers and other documents connected with the office. This Department, under its present able management, and its competent and intelligent subordinates, promises to realize all that can well be expected from a properly methodized and well regulated department of the City Government. Various checks in the expenditure of the funds entrusted to it have been introduced during the past year, and a new and well-devised system for the conduct of every branch of its business has been adopted, by which the Department has already contributed essentially to a saving of expenditure by a faithful performance of the business which has been devolved upon it.

The expenditures of this Department are much greater than of any other branch of the City Government. The duties are of a varied character, and directly affect nearly every important City interest.

Its business, at the time of my coming into office, was in great disorder, and necessarily continued so until, by the decision of the Court of Appeals, the question was finally settled, by determining the appointment of one of the contestants to be illegal. I at once suspended him from office, and with the consent of the Common Council he was promptly removed. Since that time, under the able management of this Department, much has been done towards systematizing the immense business thereof. A full report of the transactions of this Department, under its present head and his immediate predecessor, up to the first of January, will be submitted in a few days.

THE FISCAL YEAR.

In my opinion it is important that the fiscal year for this City be changed from the first of January to some later period in the year, and I would suggest the first of July as the proper time for the commencement of the fiscal year—following in this the precedent of the General Government. There are several reasons for this proposed change. We would thus avoid the absurdity of making expenditures without knowing whether they will be authorized or not by the Legislature. This necessity occurs every year, under the present system. We would also avoid the irregularity that must arise in all the executive departments, resulting from entering upon the duties of the year, not knowing for several months yet to come either what work they will have to do or what amount of money will be appropriated for the purpose.

In fact, it happened during the last as in previous years, that some of the appropriations were exhausted before the end of the year. When this occurs there is no legal power short of the Legislature of the State, for incurring any additional expenditure. In many cases no great detriment will arise from this, but in others, such as supplies to public offices, fuel, printing, &c., or for fire apparatus, matters essential in the transaction of ordinary public business, or involving the safety of property, imperative necessity demands expenditures, even without warrant of law. If the fiscal year were changed, and important appropriations of this character found to be insufficient, they could be increased by the Legislature when the interest and safety of the City should demand it. I would also recommend that the annual appropriations should, as far as possible, specify the various items of expenditure, and especially would I recommend that distinct appropriations be made for expenditures under the several departments, so that each department may be held responsible for its estimates of the amounts required, and for the expenditures on the account of each appropriation. It has heretofore been customary for the several departments to draw upon a common appropriation. This, in my judgment, tends to relieve the departments from their proper responsibility.

An important change in the system of paying the different parties connected with the various departments of the City for their services or work done under their direction, has been effected within the past few months. The Chamberlain of the City now makes all the payments under pay-rolls furnished by the different departments, instead of leaving these payments to be made by the several departments as heretofore—thus confining each department or bureau thereof to the specific duties which appertain to them under the Charter.

The system has since its introduction worked well, and has secured to every party the payment due to him on the several pay rolls without delay or deduction.

The Governors of the

call for an increase of their annual appropriation for this year. The expenses of this Department have, no doubt, necessarily increased in consequence of the larger number of inmates in the various institutions under its charge, and the increased applications for relief from those who, still, with the small winter stipend, are enabled to preserve their homes. But it is evident that the increase in the expenses of this Department when compared with those of five or six years since, are greater than the increase in our population would warrant. The Common Council had no control whatever over these expenditures; they have only to make the annual appropriation, and the Comptroller pays the same from time to time, as may be required by the Board of Governors. It is true that the Charter requires the annual estimates of this Department, as well as of the Board of Education, to be submitted to a Commission, composed of the Mayor, Comptroller and the two Presidents of the Boards of the Common Council. But even if they object, after such submission, to the amount required or any part thereof, the appropriations have always, so far at least, been repassed by a sufficient majority as to make them valid in accordance with the Charter.

The expenses of the Almshouse Department in 1850 were about $400,000; there was, together, raised last year the sum of $705,000 for its support, while the estimate submitted for 1859 requires for all expenses the sum of $830,200. During the past year a new Hospital building on Blackwell's Island has been in course of construction, which, when completed, will cost, as estimated, about $150,000. This building will afford accommodation for a large number of patients, and in its arrangements, it is said, will excel any other hospital building in the country.

A new wing to the Lunatic Asylum is contemplated to be commenced this year in order to afford the required accommodation for the unfortunate beings who are placed within its charge. There are now six hundred and sixty-six inmates in the Asylum; every ward and room is full, and the accommodations being calculated for only 450 persons, even the halls of the building are occupied for temporary wards. The general arrangements of the Institution are however such, that satisfactory improvement is continually exhibited in the condition of its patients.

The nurseries on Randall's Island now contain over fourteen hundred children from the ages of 2 to 14 years. This Institution is a most worthy one, and well merits the great care bestowed upon it by the Governors of the Department.

The other Institutions under the charge of the Governors such, as the Bellevue Hospital, the Almshouse proper, the Workhouse and the Penitentiary, are conducted in a manner which meets with my general approval. There are now in all the different Institutions under the charge of the Almshouse Department about 8,000 persons supported at the expense of the City, while the population of families relieved by coal is 38,357 adults, and 50,274 children, and that of those assisted in small monthly sums, 9,033 are adults, and 12,263 children, denominated the out-door poor.

THE CROTON AQUEDUCT DEPARTMENT

still continues to be managed in that judicious and economical manner which has marked it during the whole period since its organization. I am informed that the aqueduct is in good condition, and promises to continue to supply the City with wholesome water, without extensive repairs, for many years.

It is gratifying, in connection with this Department, to state that the annual receipts for water rents have the past year exceeded any previous one. 1857 yielded heretofore the largest amount, the receipts then being $607,370 51. In 1858, however, they have been about $730,000. This does not include the total water rents, for there are always every year an amount of arrears varying from $40,000 to $60,000, which are collected by the Finance Department.

The hydrographic survey of the Croton River, above the dam, which was commenced in 1857 by the Department, in order to ascertain the probable amount of supply on the water-shed of the Croton River, as well as for ascertaining suitable points for storage reservoirs for the surplus waters of the river, so that a full supply of water can always be furnished the City in favorable seasons as well as in periods of drought, has been continued during the past year, and completed. The result has been such as to well repay the expense of the survey, which will no doubt be of great use in extending the work when necessary. Lines amounting in length to 480 miles were run by parties engaged in surveying, and various sites for storage reservoirs were examined and important information obtained, which will undoubtedly be of great value in estimating hereafter the cost and capacity of each of them.

The length of the ridge-line forming the water-shed of the Croton River, beyond the point of the commencement of the aqueduct, has been ascertained to be 101 miles, and within the circuit of the valley there were found 21 natural lakes and ponds. The aggregate length of all the principal tributaries of the Croton is 136 miles, the length of the principal stream being 39 miles. The total area of the water-shed above the commencement of the aqueduct, has been found to be 352 square miles.

With this vast area—the numerous tributaries of the Croton, and the natural lakes and ponds—in the circuit of the valley found by this survey—it is evident that an abundant supply of water can, by the construction of the necessary additional works, be always afforded to the City even when densely populated to the full extent of the island.

The Department contemplates this year to commence an improvement to the High Bridge, so that a larger supply of water can be brought over it, necessary when the new reservoir shall be ready to be filled. The cost of this improvement to the bridge, it is estimated, will be $150,000.

The new reservoir was commenced the past year. The work is proceeding rapidly, and its cost, it is supposed, will not exceed the original estimate—$550,000. There will, however, be other work, in the construction of gate-houses and sewers, which will cost together the additional sum of $300,000. The reservoir will contain, when completed, more than one thousand million gallons, and will be ample to supply a population largely exceeding that now embraced within the limits of the City. Some fears have been expressed in regard to the manner in which its outer embankment is being built, but apprehensions have been felt that the strength will not be sufficient to resist the immense mass of water that will be eventually contained within it. But, on consultation with the Croton Aqueduct Board, I am satisfied that its construction is such that, when completed, the embankment and rubble wall within it will be able to safely retain all the water that the reservoir will hold. It has been protected by a stone wall, and a stone wall should surround the whole work; but this, in my opinion, is not only wholly unnecessary, but would, while contributing greatly to the cost of the reservoir, detract from the great feature of ornament which it promises to be in the Central Park. All the good or benefit to result from such a wall would be to the contractors who might have the building of the same.

This Department has laid during the past year 19,640 feet of water-pipe of various sizes, making, together with that previously laid, nearly 254 miles in the whole City. There had also been constructed under its direction, and by virtue of ordinances of the Common Council, 16,566 feet of sewers, which, with those previously constructed, make nearly 176 miles of sewerage in the different avenues and streets of this metropolis. Several streets and public thoroughfares have been repaved, under the direction of the Croton Board, with Belgian pavement, the owners readily consenting to bear one-half of the expenses rather than have the same repaved with cobble stones. In a message transmitted to the Common Council in the month of August last, I recommended and strongly urged the importance of repaving Chambers-street and all the streets south of it, with the Belgian pavement, as a measure of wise economy and essential for the preservation of the public health. The lower part of the City is now given up almost wholly to trade and commerce, and it is satisfactorily shown that a firm and durable pavement should be laid. There are other sections of the City which require to be repaved with this pavement, with a view to the improvement of their sanitary condition. I would urge upon the Common Council the adoption of ordinances for the paving of these sections of the City with the Belgian pavement, commencing with those streets which are in the worst repair, and that, if deemed expedient, an application be made to the Legislature to create a pavement fund by issuing stock to an amount sufficient for paying the proportion of this expense to be borne by the Corporation in these important improvements.

I called the attention of the Common Council in the month of November last to the smooth condition of the Russ pavement laid in Broadway. I then recommended that the blocks of stone forming this pavement be taken up, broken into smaller blocks, of the size of those used for the Belgian pavement, and then relaid. I would again urge upon the Common Council the necessity for this or some other effectual improvement. The surface of the pavement is so slippery as to make it dangerous.

By placing the blocks so as to leave points between them of an inch-and-a-half, which could be filled with concrete, the surface would be well adapted for travel, without the present liability to accidents from its being too smooth.

I trust you will early take action in this matter, and give to the Croton Board the necessary authority to proceed at once with this important work. The probable cost of the whole improvement could be easily ascertained by directing an extent of Broadway, between any two of its intersecting streets, to be relaid in the manner proposed.

SANITARY REGULATIONS OF THE CITY.

The sanitary regulation of the City is placed by the charter in charge of the City Inspector, who has the cognizance of all matters affecting the public health, pursuant to the ordinances of the Common Council and the lawful requirements of the Commissioners of Health and the Board of Health. A principal matter connected with the public health is the proper and thorough cleanliness of its streets, and for this purpose large sums have been annually expended, without satisfactorily accomplishing the object.

The expenses of cleaning streets in 1840 were $140,976 73, and the receipts for manure $38,711 72. In 1857 the expenses were $232,764 04; but during the greater part of the year the streets were under contract to be cleaned, and the larger part was paid to contractors who, in most instances, failed to comply with their contracts.

The Common Council, in the month of May last, passed an ordinance directing the City Inspector to again advertise for proposals for cleaning the streets. Nothing has as yet been done under this ordinance. The streets have, during the whole of this year, been cleaned without contract, under the direction of the City Inspector and the various Street Inspectors of the several Wards of the City. The expenses have been about $200,000. The receipts for manure have been much less than was formerly received. The amount received this year was $7,600.

I call your attention to the large increase in the amount paid for cleaning the streets since 1840, and also to the decreased sums received for manure since that year. If the City has increased its limits of population, and thereby rendered a greater number of streets to be cleaned, so also must be the quantity of manure taken from them greatly increased; but it seems the receipts for the same are much below those of the year 1840.

I am of the opinion that by contracting with proper parties with sufficient sureties, and holding them to a strict accountability, that the streets could be thus cleaned, cheaper than by persons employed directly by the several Street Inspectors.

In my opinion, this department requires a reorganization, so as to the Comptroller can pay any bill in his discretion without the approbation or consent of the Board of the Department in which the claim originates. In my opinion it is proper that the Comptroller and his subordinates, of all officers of city government, should be appointed by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City. The Comptroller and his subordinates, under the Mayor, in conjunction with the Mayor and his Aldermen, form a board upon the expenditures of the City, which may be a check upon the expenditures of the City. The Comptroller and his subordinates, under the Mayor and his Aldermen, form a board upon the expenditures. The Mayor and his Aldermen should not be relieved of all responsibility, but it is well to have an independent department to audit and finally settle the accounts for expenditures made by others.

The Comptroller has property the appointing of all the officers and clerks in the Department, and is in no way responsible to or under the supervision of the Mayor; but, in my opinion, a judicious system requires that his bureau for the collection of public moneys should be in the Finance Department. All persons paying moneys to City officers should, however, be required to register such payment in the Finance Department, which would then be enabled to detect at once any appropriation of public moneys by collecting officers. The Finance Department would then exercise the functions properly appertaining to it, and would be a check upon all the other Departments. When collections are made directly by the Finance Department, or bills audited by it without the previous action of other Departments, this salutary check of two independent Departments upon each other would, in my opinion, lead to salutary improvement in the collection and disbursement of the funds of the City.

The Street Department, at the time of my accession to office, appeared to be in inextricable confusion, and remained so until the Court of Appeals decided that the contracts made by the Mayor and Aldermen were illegal. However, with great exertion, and at my urgent solicitation, Mr. Erastus Corson consented to take and hold the office temporarily until order could be restored and the Department reorganized. The object has now been accomplished, and Mr. Corson has retired, and I have had satisfaction in being able to state that this important Department is now reduced to a proper system, and is now under the direction of an engineer well qualified by education and character to discharge his onerous and varied duties.

In the City Inspector's department I have been unfortunate. I shall, however, be able at an early day to nominate for your approval an City Inspector a candidate with a single eye to his qualifications for the office, and I respectfully ask that you will second my efforts to secure clean streets and improve the sanitary condition of the City.

So far as the Police is concerned, the Mayor is merely ex-officio a member of a commission of seven, which constitutes the government of this department in conjunction. He has a veto in the Board of Commissioners upon all orders which may be passed by the Board, but he has no direct control over the Police force. Even the officers and men assigned to discharge the varied duties of the Mayor's office may be recalled at any time, and then the Chief Magistrate possesses Police power only in name.

I trust therefore that the Legislature will clothe the Mayor with such powers as will enable him at least to hold the Executive officers to a strict accountability, and to exercise a more effectual restraint on unwise and improvident measures.

DANIEL F. TIEMANN.

Before the reading of the Message was completed, Alderman Stern moved that the further reading be dispensed with, and that the Message be printed in pamphlet form. Carried.

Aldermen Stern, Brandy and Eccles were appointed a special Committee to consider the tax levy.

The Report of the Croton Aqueduct Board was laid over. A communication from the Street Commissioner, asking for appropriations for the expenses of the Street Department, was referred, and the Board adjourned to Tuesday, 5 P. M.

The same deputy and clerks who served under the old Board are reappointed.

Board of Councilmen.

ELECTION OF CHARLES G. CORNELL PRESIDENT AND C. T. M'CLEAGHAN CLERK—CONTESTED SEATS AND PROTESTS.

At 12 o'clock, yesterday, Mr. C. T. McCleaghan, the Clerk of last year, called the Board to order. The roll of newly-elected members was then gone through with, the different gentlemen taking their seats in the following order:

Districts.	Names of Councilmen.	Districts.	Names of Councilmen.
No. 1	McCarty.	No. 13	Otterson.
No. 2	Bickford.	No. 14	Platt.
No. 3	Bedell.	No. 15	Lent.
No. 4	Jones.	No. 16	Rose.
No. 5	Tipper.	No. 17	Darrow.
No. 6	Gilmore.	No. 18	Leimbacher, Jr.
No. 7	Van Tine.	No. 19	Decker.
No. 8	Shelton.	No. 20	Hancock.
No. 9	Hall.	No. 21	Allen.
No. 10	Connell.	No. 22	Townsend.
No. 11	McCannon.	No. 23	Valentine.
No. 12	Crist.	No. 24	Frost.

When Mr. Frost's name was reached, Mr. Otterson objected to his taking his seat on the ground that he was not elected.

Mr. Frost was then nominated as temporary Chairman by Mr. Lawrence.

It was moved that Mr. Frost's name be substituted. The amendment was negatived by a vote of 16 to 12.

The question then recurred on Mr. Frost's nomination, which was rejected by a vote of 11 affirmative and 13 negative.

It was then moved that a ballot for President pro tem. be gone into. Councilmen Rogers and Valentine were appointed tellers, and the clerk proceeded to call the roll. When Mr. Frost's name was reached, Mr. Otterson again objected to his name being called.

The Clerk said that until the Board should be organized he could do nothing but receive Mr. Frost's certificate.

Twenty-four ballots were cast and the Clerk declared the result as follows:

Councilman Bussing	13
Councilman Lent	11

Mr. Bussing was declared elected President pro tem. He said that if he committed any errors they would be those of the head and not of the heart. He hoped that everything would be conducted in moderation.

It was moved by Mr. Darrow that the Board proceed to the election of a permanent President.

An adjournment until Tuesday at 4 P. M. was moved by Mr. Lawrence and lost by a vote of 11 to 13.

The question recurred on the proceeding to the election of permanent President.

Mr. Van Tine nominated Chas. G. Cornell.

Mr. Lawrence nominated Franklin J. Otterson.

Before the result was declared, Alderman Stern appeared at the head of a Committee from the Board of which he is a member, and announced that they were ready to receive any communication the Councilmen might choose to send.

Mr. Bussing answered that they would reply by Committee in a few minutes.

The result of the first ballot was then announced as follows:

Charles G. Cornell	13
Franklin J. Otterson	11

Mr. Cornell was declared elected, and Messrs. Stagg and Crane were appointed a Committee to conduct him to the Chair.

He addressed the Board as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD OF COUNCILMEN: I return you my thanks for this manifestation of your partiality and confidence in selecting me to preside over your deliberations for the coming year. I shall endeavor at all times to decide fairly and impartially upon all questions that may arise. I also trust that in presiding over your deliberations that I may have the support of every member of this body, in order that good feeling and harmony may characterize all our actions for the coming year.

Gentlemen of the Board of Councilmen, your duties are now about commencing, and I trust that you will perform them with that zeal and ability that I know is possessed by the members of this Board. Important questions will come before you in which the interests of the whole City are involved. It will be your duty as Guardians of the City in such a manner that the Common Council of 1859 will be remembered as one combining so much ability and integrity and so capable of properly attending to the public necessities as any one that has preceded. Again thank you, gentlemen, for the honor you have conferred upon me.

It was then moved that the Board proceed to the election of Clerk for the ensuing year.

Mr. McCarty nominated Charles T. McCleaghan, and Councilmen Valentine, Walsh & Pinkney. Twenty-four ballots were cast, of which Mr. McCleaghan received 13. He was declared elected.

Franklin M. Smith was elected Sergeant-at-Arms by acclamation.

Mr. Otterson attempted to call up his protest, but President Cornell refused to entertain it at that time.

Councilmen Rogers, Bussing and Lent were appointed a Committee to wait upon the Mayor and inform him of the completion of the organization of the Board.

Councilmen McCormell, Hall and Ferrer were appointed to wait upon the Aldermen. In a few minutes the Committee returned, and the Chairman announced that they had waited upon the Board of Aldermen and informed them of the organization of the Board of Councilmen. Councilman Burtsel also announced that they had waited upon the Mayor, who stated that he would communicate with them in five minutes, and requested, meanwhile, that they would remain in session.

The reports were received and the Committees discharged.

The election of Doorkeeper was then proceeded with. Roderick T. Entwistle and Wm. Cardell were nominated.

Mr. Entwistle received 18 votes of the 24 cast, and was declared elected.

Councilman Otterson presented the following protest, which was read by the Deputy Clerk:

To the Board of Councilmen of the City and County of New-York:

I protest against proceeding to organize this Board further, until after the question of the members elect to this Board is settled or before the election of Alexander Frost is concerned. I claim the right to a seat in this Board by election in his place, and stand ready and willing to take my right to the seat assigned him.

JAS. G. McADAMS, Twentieth Ward.

Dated New-York, Jan. 3, 1859.

Councilman Rogers moved that the protest be referred to a Special Committee.

Councilman Crane said that by courtesy the making of that motion belonged to him, but that he would interpose no objection, as the reference was just what he desired.

Councilman Rogers' motion was carried.

Mr. McCleaghan made the following appointments:

John A. Towle, Deputy-Clerk.
James Little, Assistant-Clerk.
John E. Gruber, Messenger.
Conroy E. Harper, Assistant-Messenger.

President Cornell announced as a Committee to consider Mr. McAdam's protest, Councilmen Rogers, Burtsel and Lawrence.

The Mayor's Message was received, and a thousand copies ordered to be printed in document form.

Councilman Lawrence said that, with reference to the remark by the President that he would not appoint Committees for this Board before its next meeting, he had a request to make. Whatever position should be assigned him on these Committees, he would ask not to be associated with a person in the Board named Wm. H. Valentine. [Loud applause, with hisses.]

The President called Mr. Lawrence to order.

An adjournment to Monday next, at 5 P. M., was then moved and carried.

The reason why, is, that by Nature's own process it restores the natural color permanently after the hair becomes gray; supplies the natural fluids, and thus makes it grow on bald heads, removes all dandruff, itching and heat from the scalp, quiets and tones up the nerves, and thus cures all nervous headache, and may be relied on to cure all diseases of the scalp and hair; it will stop and keep it from falling off; makes it soft, glossy, healthy and beautiful, and if used by the young two or three times a week, it will never fall or become gray; then, reader, read the following and judge for yourselves:

NEW-YORK, Jan. 8, 1858.

MESSRS. O. J. WOOD & CO.:

GENTLEMEN: Having heard a good deal about Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and my hair being quite gray, I made up my mind to lay aside the prejudices which I, in common with a great many persons, had against all manner of patent medicines, and a short time ago I commenced using your article, to test it for myself.

The result has been so very satisfactory that I am very glad I did so, and in justice to you, as well as for the encouragement of others who may be as gray as I was, but having my prejudice without my reasons for setting it aside, are unwilling to give your restorative a trial till they have further proof, and the best proof being ocular demonstration, I write you this letter, which you may show to any such, and also direct them to me for further proof, who am in and out of the New-York Wire-Railing Establishment every day.

My hair is now its natural color and much improved in appearance every way, being glossier and thicker and much more healthy looking. I remain, respectfully,

HENRY JENKINS,
Corner Columbia and Carroll sts., Brooklyn.

LIVINGSTON, Ala., Feb. 16, 1858.

PROF. WOOD—Dear Sir: Your Hair Restorative has done much good in this part of the country. My hair has been slightly diminishing for several years, caused, I suppose, from a slight burn when I was quite an infant. I have been using Prof. Wood's Restorative for five weeks and I find that I have a fine head of hair now growing after having used all other remedies known, to no effect. I think it the most valuable remedy now extant, and advise all who are afflicted that way to use your remedy.

You can publish this if you think it proper. Yours, &c.,
R. W. MIDDLETON.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9, 1857.

PROF. WOOD—Dear Sir: Your Hair Restorative is proving itself beneficial to me. The front, and also the back part of my head almost lost its covering—was in fact bald. I have used but two half-pint bottles of your Restorative, and now the top of my head is well stocked with a promising crop of young hair, and the front part is filling up rapidly. I think it the best article of the kind I have ever used, whatever. I think from my own personal recommendation, I can induce many others to try it.

Yours, respectfully, A. B. TEORAS, M. D.,
No. 1 Wine-st.

The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz.: large, medium and small; the small holds half a pint, and retails for $1 per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for $2 per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for $3 a bottle.

CASES AND CURES.

P.—HUMPHREYS' HOMŒOPATHIC PILE SPECIFIC, For the cure of Piles or Hemorrhoids, blind or bleeding, internal or external. Piles! What is it? How cured?

Thousands of persons have Piles—suffer for years with the disease—yet few know what it is, or how it is cured. Every case of Piles, whether manifested in the form of external tumors, frequent bleedings, or in violent itching and irritation, depends essentially upon congestion of the abdominal venous circulation. This produces the engorgement, dilation of the veins, formation of tumors, hemorrhages, pain and suffering; and the disease can only be fundamentally cured by medicines which, taken internally, relieve this abdominal venous congestion. Hence ointments, washes, and even injections, are so ineffectual.

HUMPHREYS' HOMŒOPATHIC PILE SPECIFIC—A simple sugar-pill, taken two or three times per day, cures the disease by curing the condition upon which the disease depends. Hundreds have been cured by it, even of the most obstinate cases. All will be promptly benefited by it.

CASES AND CURES.

1. A clergyman of the Baptist Church, well known in Illinois, writing to us, says: "I have been for some time seriously afflicted with Bleeding Piles, and have regarded my case as a severe one—at one time, indeed, hopeless—but I have used your medicine, (Pile Specific,) and am cured. I have no doubt you are laying the world under great and lasting obligation."

2. A lady sends us the following: "I have been quite afflicted for several years past with Hemorrhoids, or Piles—have tried homœopathic remedies previously, but without success. A few weeks since I commenced taking your Specific for that complaint, and felt almost immediate relief. After taking six or eight of the Pills, the cure seemed to be wholly effected. At all events, I have not been so entirely free from it the same length of time for several years."

3. A gentleman in Ontario County had been subject to Piles for twelve or fifteen years. They were extremely painful, often bleeding profusely. He obtained and commenced taking the Pile Specific, one pill morning and night. After having taken less than one box the patient declares himself entirely well.

4. A gentleman of 50 years, well and favorably known at Delhi, Delaware County, N. Y., had been a martyr to the Piles for 30 years. Sometimes from excessive hemorrhage, pain and suffering, he was reduced to the verge of the grave. For years he had dragged out a miserable existence, a confirmed invalid, disqualified for any business, and life almost a burden. It is needless to add that he had tried all sorts of remedies from all sorts of doctors to little purpose. He consulted me two years ago, and I recommended our Pile Specific, with occasionally a Dyspepsia Pill. From this he began to improve, and since has never had a serious turn of Piles. From the first month up to a year past, he had occasionally symptoms of his old complaint, but a few doses of the Pile Pills would disperse it all, and for more than a year past he has been entirely well of the Piles. A more brilliant cure is scarcely to be found in the annals of medicine.

5. James H. Porter, of Amityville, N. Y., writes: One case of piles, of over twelve years standing, was very much relieved within one week, with every prospect of a permanent cure by the use of your Pile Pills alone.

6. PILES AND DYSPEPSIA.—A young gentleman had been for some months afflicted with Piles. They were internal, very painful, and bleeding at every stool. His stomach was also very weak, food lying like a load, and frequently rising in his mouth, sour or bitter, distress after eating, flatulence and costive bowels. He procured, after trying other remedies with only temporary effect, a box of our Homœopathic Dyspepsia Pills. This he did in opposition to the advice of his Homœopathic physician, who told him that "the Pills were a humbug." He, however, found himself relieved, from the first dose, and, in the course of four or five weeks, considered himself pretty well of all his ailments, having used no other medicine.

7. Mr. ——, aged 36, had been afflicted with weak stomach for fifteen years; often attended with pain in the stomach, faintness and sense of giddiness, frequent attacks of vertigo, and inclination to fall on turning quickly. There is always distress after eating, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, and frequent turns of nausea, with fullness, headache in the forehead, extending to the back of the neck, with roaring and throbbing in the head. He commenced taking the DYSPEPSIA PILLS, and was entirely relieved after the second day.

8. A man, aged 45, had been ill for two years with dyspepsia, weakness of stomach, and sore mouth. All kinds of food, even the lightest, disagreed with him, producing a sensation of fullness, heaviness and repletion; acid taste, and frequent risings in the mouth. The bowels were obstinately constipated, and there was frequent difficulty in urination; the tongue thickly coated with fur, yellowish in the centre, sore around the edges, with painful ulcerations on the cheeks and at the corners of the mouth. This condition had no doubt been aggravated by some nostrum which he had been taking at the suggestion of a friend.

9. STOMACACH OR WORKING SORE MOUTH.—A lady, aged 26, having an infant 3 weeks old, had been harassed since its birth with an obstinate canker sore mouth. She became extremely feeble and pale, her appetite poor, and food often distressing her after eating, while her mouth was extremely sensitive with painful heat and burning. Several ulcers formed along the edge of the tongue and on the inside of the lips, which were so painfully painful and burning on taking food or any acid substance into the mouth. She commenced taking the Dyspepsia Pills, one at two dissolved in water, of which she took a large spoonful four times per day. She experienced prompt relief, and in two weeks was entirely well.

He commenced taking the Dyspepsia Pills, morning, noon and night, and soon found his stomach improved in its tone, taking food with less inconvenience; bowels become more regular, tongue cleared and ulcers healed up. In a few weeks he was entirely cured, having taken no other medicine.

CASES AND CURES.

COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS AND BONE THROAT.

In their various shades and diversified characters are so frequent, and so often lay the foundation of incurable disease, that no person who has a proper regard for his health should be without a remedy for them. Almost all cases of consumption will be found to have commenced with what appeared to be a slight cold, to which cough, and afterwards pain and emaciation, with night sweat and hectic fever were added at a later stage. And all such cases were, at least for a considerable period, fully within the reach of a remedy as simple and as efficacious as the Cough Pills.

In our changeable climate a cold, in most families, is a matter of almost daily occurrence among its members; and, with some persons, there is a constant predisposition to take cold from the slightest exposure, showing an extremely irritable condition of the mucous membrane of the air passages, a condition which is always alarming, and the proper subject of treatment. If such persons will follow a few plain rules, they may soon destroy this peculiar liability to take cold. Let such people use mostly, only water, or weak tea or chocolate for drink; usually take a glass or half a glass of cold water, on going to bed; and if a male, suffer the beard to grow under the chin and over the throat, and take one of the Cough Pills every night, on going to bed, and they will ere long, be entirely rid of colds.

COUGHS AND COLDS.—A gentleman, a public lecturer, took a severe cold the latter part of last month, while traveling and lecturing in Northern Pennsylvania, though addressing public audiences every evening, yet in two days, by the aid of the Specific, he was entirely recovered, and enabled to pursue his calling without inconvenience. No public speaker should be without them.

BAD COLD.—A married lady of 40 had taken a violent cold, which settled on her lungs, causing severe cough, pain in the side, and considerable fever and hoarseness. Such colds were usually very lasting and troublesome, but by taking the Specific Cough Pills four times per day, in three days she was entirely well.

COUGH AND BRONCHITIS.—A young man of 22 had a cough and hoarseness for fifteen months. During cold weather his voice was lost so as only to speak in whispers; pain induced on coughing; cough dry, or raising only a trifle in the morning; quite feeble and emaciated. Had taken several medicines with but little or no benefit. He commenced with the Cough Pills—one pill three times per day, and soon found himself improving, his cough milder and softer, hoarseness passed of, strength and appetite improved, and in a few weeks was entirely well, having taken no other medicine.

A gentleman of 36, strong and robust, took a severe cold, attended with pain and soreness in the chest, frequent cough, without expectoration, a rent in all the bones, and general prostration. The Cough Pills—1 pill three times per day—entirely cured him in three days.

Coughs, Colds, Influenza and Hoarseness find no better remedy than the Specific Cough Pills. Take these as directed, avoid exposure, damp feet, coffee and all excesses, and your cold will soon be well.

BRONCHITIS AND COUGH.—R. H. Graham, Esq., of Moline, Ill., says: "I know well the value of your Cough Pills, having used them last Winter at Albany. They helped me the most of anything I ever used, and I consider them invaluable."

CHRONIC COUGH AND THREATENED CONSUMPTION.—A married gentleman, aged thirty-three, had suffered from a cough for six months, to such an extent as justly to excite the most serious apprehensions on the part of his friends. His cough was frequent, attended with pain in his side, shortness of breath, loss of flesh, pale sunken face, and at times fever. All the remedies he had tried had not not availed to meet his case, or even relieve his cough. He took one box of the Cough Pills without experiencing but moderate relief, and on consulting Prof. Humphreys, was advised to use the Fever Pills in alternation with the Cough Pills. He did so, taking three or four pills per day, and found immediate relief, and in three weeks, considered himself entirely well, having regained his strength and vigor, and being free from his cough.

NO. 9—HEADACHE PILLS.

For Headaches of all sorts, Sick Headache with Nausea and Vomiting, &c.; for Vertigo, Dulness, Heat and Swimming of the Head, Vanishing of Sight, Numbness, &c.

No one, subject to this distressing affection, should hesitate to give this medicine a trial. Hundreds of cases have been permanently cured by it. It often averts the attack entirely, and destroys the predisposition to a return, when properly followed up.

CASES AND CURES.

HEADACHE.—A lady of 30 years had been subject to Headache from childhood. The paroxysms came on every week or ten days, with violent pain in the head, of blindness, pain increasing until severe nausea and vomiting ensued. She commenced using the Headache Pills with prompt relief, and by continuing their use the attack became less frequent and severe, until she has become entirely free.

HEADACHE.—A lady of 29, tall and spare, had been subject to distressing attacks of headache, returning at irregular periods, but also always coming on during the monthly periods. It would then continue with great violence during the entire period, beginning on one side, over the eye, and by degrees changing to the other—a boring pain, as if a gimlet or nail were forced into the brain. During the attack she could not eat, sleep or sit up, with occasional turns of vomiting. The scalp was sensitive, and even the pillow seemed too hard. She received the HEADACHE PILLS, to take one pill per day until the menses or pain disappeared, and then to dissolve one pill in water, (half glass,) and take a spoonful every hour until relieved. To her astonishment the next period passed without the usual pain in her head, she was able to sit up and continue her usual avocations, sewing during the entire period, a circumstance without precedent during the past ten years.

HEADACHE PILLS.—A gentleman of 51 had been subject to headache from childhood, violent pain in forehead, causing him to hold the head; intolerance of light and noise; uneasiness and nausea; attacks returned frequently, and continued 4 days or two. All old school remedies were of no avail. The Headache Pills relieved at once, and on a second attack they disappeared. For occasional use they are invaluable.

HUMPHREYS' HOMŒOPATHIC PILLS.

For Weak Stomach, Liver Complaint, Heart Burn, Spitting up of Food, Flatulence, Costive Bowels, Bad Taste, Loss of Appetite, Costive Bowels, Bilious Complaints, Kidney Complaints, Sore Mouth of Nursing Women, Vomiting and Morning Sickness of Pregnant Females, &c.

A multitude in every community suffer from these and kindred evils, against which the usual remedies at best only palliate, while in most cases they aggravate and even render them incurable. A trial even of a single Pill, in any of the above cases, will satisfy the most incredulous of its great value.

As a Dinner Pill, to relieve the inconveniences from heavy, rich or unsuitable food, or any derangements from such cause, this remedy is infallible.

CASES AND CURES.

DYSPEPSIA OR WEAK STOMACH, CASE 1.—A young woman of 19 had Dyspepsia for two years, attended with a severe pain in the pit of the stomach, coming on during eating, or as soon as food reached the stomach, and continuing through the period of digestion. The pain was severe and aching, sometimes extending to the shoulders: less if he ate very digestible food, and proportionably more violent as his food was less carefully selected. It was also worse during warm weather. The bowels were very costive—stools hard and dry. Allopathic medicines only made him worse, and the prescriptions of a very regular Homœopathe failed to help him. He commenced taking the Dyspepsia Pills, one pill three times per day, with prompt relief. In little more than a week this pain of two years' standing had disappeared, and in a month more his bowels had become perfectly regular and he was entirely well.

2. A young lady of 26 had been troubled with indigestion for several months, so as to render great care necessary in the selection of her food. After eating, the stomach became acid, and rising in her mouth with water, and an unpleasant, heavy, load-like sensation in her stomach, continuing for some hours, frequent headaches, bowels constipated, and a depressed mental condition. She commenced taking the Dyspepsia Pills, one, morning and night, and in less than a week almost every symptom of her disease had vanished, and she felt like a new being.

3. A gentleman somewhat advanced in years, strong, robust constitution, had lately been a good deal affected with indigestion, weak stomach, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, and attended with a peculiar vertigo and whirling in the head, so as to render it dangerous in his riding in a carriage or even mounting an eminence quite dangerous. After trying several things ineffectually, he fell upon the Dyspepsia Pills, which afforded prompt relief. A pill every night and morning worked like a charm, relieving all his vertigo and other unpleasant symptoms.

4. PILES AND DYSPEPSIA.—A young gentleman had been for some months afflicted with Piles. They were internal, very painful, and bleeding at every stool. His stomach was also very weak, food lying like a load, and frequently rising in his mouth, sour or bitter, distress after eating, flatulence and costive bowels. He procured, after trying other remedies with only temporary effect, a box of our Homœopathic Dyspepsia Pills. This he did in opposition to the advice of his Homœopathic physician, who told him that "the Pills were a humbug." He, however, found himself relieved, from the first dose, and, in the course of four or five weeks, considered himself pretty well of all his ailments, having used no other medicine.

5. DYSPEPSIA AND HEADACHE.—A stout man, 56 years of age, had suffered several years from Dyspepsia and weak stomach. He had almost constant headache with sense of fullness in the head and stomach. Food soon became acid and rose in the mouth in acid eructations; feeling of fullness and repletion in the stomach; bad taste in the mouth; coated tongue; poor appetite, with a general debility, prostration and depression of spirits. The Dyspepsia Pills, No. 10, cured him entirely in the course of a few weeks, taking only one pill morning and night.

6. WEAK STOMACH.—A gentleman, aged 56, had for some years been troubled with a weak stomach to such a degree as to require great carefulness in the selection of food, small rich or heavy food, pastry or pies, were seen to occasion pain and distress. Acids, and all kinds of fruit, even apples, could not be eaten without subsequent suffering. He commenced the use of the Dyspepsia Pills, one every night and morning, with evident improvement, and soon found himself able to use most kinds of food with impunity, and even to eat two or three apples per day without inconvenience.

7. Mr. ——, aged 36, had been afflicted with weak stomach for fifteen years; often attended with pain in the stomach, faintness and sense of giddiness, frequent attacks of vertigo, and inclination to fall on turning quickly. There is always distress after eating, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, and frequent turns of nausea, with fullness, headache in the forehead, extending to the back of the neck, with roaring and throbbing in the head. He commenced taking the DYSPEPSIA PILLS, and was entirely relieved after the second day.

8. A man, aged 45, had been ill for two years with dyspepsia, weakness of stomach, and sore mouth. All kinds of food, even the lightest, disagreed with him, producing a sensation of fullness, heaviness and repletion; acid taste, and frequent risings in the mouth. The bowels were obstinately constipated, and there was frequent difficulty in urination; the tongue thickly coated with fur, yellowish in the centre, sore around the edges, with painful ulcerations on the cheeks and at the corners of the mouth. This condition had no doubt been aggravated by some nostrum which he had been taking at the suggestion of a friend.

9. STOMACACH OR WORKING SORE MOUTH.—A lady, aged 26, having an infant 3 weeks old, had been harassed since its birth with an obstinate canker sore mouth. She became extremely feeble and pale, her appetite poor, and food often distressing her after eating, while her mouth was extremely sensitive with painful heat and burning. Several ulcers formed along the edge of the tongue and on the inside of the lips, which were so painfully painful and burning on taking food or any acid substance into the mouth. She commenced taking the Dyspepsia Pills, one at two dissolved in water, of which she took a large spoonful four times per day. She experienced prompt relief, and in two weeks was entirely well.

He commenced taking the Dyspepsia Pills, morning, noon and night, and soon found his stomach improved in its tone, taking food with less inconvenience; bowels become more regular, tongue cleared and ulcers healed up. In a few weeks he was entirely cured, having taken no other medicine.

MEDICAL.

As it is the duty of every man to do all in his power to rid the world of evil, and as a portion of human disease, or at least a great amount of human suffering, and premature decay of human life, is owing to ignorance and carelessness in the proper treatment of the sick, we therefore, in the manner best calculated to reach the largest number, and effect the greatest possible amount of good—HUMPHREYS'

SPECIFIC HOMŒOPATHIC REMEDIES, FOR DOMESTIC AND PRIVATE USE,

Stand confessedly at the head of remedial means for the use of the people. They are alike removed from the poisonous, dangerous and repulsive doses of quackery, or old-school practice, the inconvenience of water-cure, or the intricate and perplexing obscurities of the usual Homœopathic books and medicines. Consisting of simple specifics for the various diseases to which they are related; put up in the form of simple sugar pellets; and prepared of ingredients neither dangerous nor disgusting, they form at once the ready resource of the parent or nurse, and are the comfort of the complaining or invalid.

They possess these positive advantages. They are harmless; no injury can arise from their use. They are simple; you always know what to take, and how to take it. They are convenient; you can give the proper Sugar Pill at a moment's warning, without hesitation or delay. They are efficient; in thousands of cases disease is arrested at once, and the mite cures at the moment what the pound could not afterwards have relieved.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The R. M. steamship America arrived at Boston from Halifax last night. Her mails will reach this City about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Congress will reassemble to-day, after a recess of ten days, and we may look for a busy season at the National Capitol for some time to come. The numerous important matters awaiting legislation, it is to be hoped, will be no more neglected, though the advent of Senator DOUGLAS may have a tendency to distract the Congressional mind somewhat from strictly legislative business.

Lord LYONS, it seems, is to be the successor of Lord NAPIER at Washington, as had been already announced. The blunder of announcing that Lord ABERCROMBIE was the coming Minister, arose from the circumstance that Sir RALPH ABERCROMBIE, now Lord DUNFERMLINE, had retired from the Hague, and would be succeeded by Lord SYPHER. Lord LYONS is expected here in February.

The filibuster leaders in Washington are very much chagrined at the outward result of the voyage of the Susan. They are not so much disheartened, however, at the wreck of their vessel and the return of their men, as at the fact that it has been the means of prematurely disclosing their plans—though they profess still to hope that other vessels have succeeded in reaching Omoa, the port of debarkation, with a sufficient number of men to carry out the original intention of crossing the country to Leon. Meantime, Lord NAPIER has received dispatches from Mobile, announcing the arrival there of the British war-steamer Basilisk, with the shipwrecked filibusters on board, though the Administration has not yet been notified of the fact.

The new State Legislature will convene to-day at the State Capital, at 11 o'clock, and the Message of Governor MORGAN will be delivered immediately after the organization. No difficulty is to be anticipated in the choice of a Speaker, although, in consequence of the action of the Republicans yesterday, in calling a caucus without including the Americans elected on the Union ticket, the latter express a determination not to take part with them in the organization. The Republican caucus nominated DEWITT LITTLEJOHN for Speaker, and WILLIAM RICHARDSON for Clerk. The Union Americans nominated CHAUNCEY BOUGHTON for Speaker, and DAVID WILSON for Clerk.

Governor KING has declined the compliment of a public dinner, tendered him by leading citizens of Albany on his retirement from office, private engagements requiring him to leave the Capital immediately.

Our advices from Vera Cruz are to Dec. 22, being an amplification of what we have previously received by telegraph. Various rumors have been received from the capital, none at all substantiated. Among them is the statement that MIRAMON had been defeated near Guadalajara by DEGOLLADO. It is also said that the Zuloagists were preparing for flight from the City of Mexico, the clergy having refused to contribute further to the support of that faction, and a triumvirate was talked of. Our City of Mexico correspondence to the 20th of December, however, as well as that of the New-Orleans Picayune, states that Guadalajara had been retaken by the Government, on the 15th, after an attack of one day, though all the advantages of superior force, good position, entrenchments, and artillery were on the side of the Liberals. It is difficult at present to get at the exact truth. A large amount of silver bullion had been found in the quarters recently occupied by Mr. FORSYTH. It was supposed to be the property of Señor LORENZANA, the protégé of the Minister, though alleged by Mr. FORSYTH's enemies to be the proceeds of the robbery of the Cathedral of Morelia. Dr. SAUNTON, who left the city in the retinue of Mr. FORSYTH, having returned, had been arrested, but was subsequently released. The Progreso speaks with great satisfaction of the message of Mr. BUCHANAN, but with regard to its references to a Railroad, expresses the hope that the Senate of the United States can be brought to sanction such a measure.

The Overland California Mail, from San Francisco on the 6th of December, arrived at St. Louis on Saturday night, having been 26 days on the road. There is no additional news of importance.

News from Santa Fé, New-Mexico, to the 13th of December, has been received, which confirms the previous reports of the willingness of the Navajo Indians to keep the peace. They are represented to be making all the restitution in their power.

Utah news to the 20th of November has been received. The story to the effect that BRIGHAM YOUNG had been arrested by the U. S. District Court to answer to the charge of falsely imprisoning Gentiles, is pronounced untrue. The weather is represented to be very severe, the snow in the mountains being quite deep. A great number of Sioux Indians were encamped on the Platte River, who were preparing to make war on the Pawnees, in conjunction with the Cheyennes. Gold is reported to have been discovered on the banks of a small lake near Ash Hollow, ninety dollars worth of which was collected in a short time, including one nugget, the value of which was twenty-two dollars.

The Convention of Agriculturists, called by the Commissioner of Patents, assembled at the Patent-Office yesterday. MARSHALL P. WILDER was chosen President, and BEN PERLEY POORE Secretary. There was quite a large representation, [illegible]

[illegible] the Committee on Commerce, [illegible] Congress relating to the Slave-trade, [illegible] not embrace inland transportation, but declined to [illegible] without substituting [illegible]. Nothing was then taken; Capt. [illegible] of the steamer [illegible] testifying, [illegible] Portsmouth, Mass., Navy-yard, of the South Carolina, also testified, [illegible] Tucker, [illegible] engaged in the discussion of the affair.

A new movement in the Dudley Observatory difficulty was made yesterday. The Trustees, in the absence of Dr. GOULD, took possession of the building, heretofore held against them by the late Trustees, and appointed other officers appointed by the Trustees in possession.

A committee appointed by the citizens of Philadelphia to escort Senator DOUGLAS to that city, waited upon him, yesterday, at the Astor House. Addresses were made by the Chairman both of the New-York and Philadelphia committees, and to them the Senator made appropriate responses. A large company accompanied the Senator to the steamer, and saw him off.

General HOUSTON, in consequence of pressing duties at Washington, has been obliged to decline the hospitalities of the City tendered him by the Common Council. He left yesterday, for the Federal Capital.

Both Boards of the Common Council reorganized at noon yesterday. Alderman MCSPEDON was re-elected President of the Aldermen on the first ballot and DAVID T. VALENTINE was reelected Clerk. The Sergeant-at-Arms, Deputy-Clerk and Assistants of the old Board of Aldermen will serve under the new organization. After receiving the Mayor's Message, two or three papers were laid over or referred, and the Board adjourned. Alderman GRAHAM, the County Clerk, has resigned his seat in the Board. By the defection from the Republicans of one of the newly elected Councilmen, CHARLES G. CORNELL was yesterday chosen President of the Board for the ensuing year by 13 votes against 11 for Mr. OTTARSON. C. T. MCCLENACHAN was reelected Clerk. He reappointed as his Deputy and Assistants the same persons who filled the respective offices last year. After the reception of the Mayor's Message the Board adjourned until Monday.

The newly-elected District-Attorney, Mr. NELSON WATERBURY, took his place, yesterday, in the Court of General Sessions and conducted, on the part of the people, the trials of the day. The charge of the Court to the Grand Jury was not delivered, a quorum of that body not being in attendance. BRYAN FERRIS was convicted of a felonious assault on FRANCIS CHANLEY, and sentenced to three years and six months in the State Prison. WILLIAM REED, convicted of burglary in the third degree, was sentenced to four years and six months. No other cases of importance were tried, except that of WILLIAM OWENS, for forgery, which resulted in an acquittal.

A heavy fall of snow set in last evening, commencing about 7 o'clock, and continuing until midnight.

CANGEMI was taken, on Saturday, to the State Prison. Before leaving the City Prison, in which he has been confined for nineteen months, and where he has received every possible attention from the Warden of his corridor, he bade farewell to that gentleman in terms of obscenity not often heard even within the Tombs. So much for his professing not to understand the English language.

A German about thirty years of age, who called himself Count MARCOWSKI, was yesterday lodged in the Tombs on a charge of swindling. He had evidently made preparations for doing an extensive business. A large number of forged letters of credit from prominent European bankers, were found upon his person, besides a large number of letters of introduction from distinguished personages in the Old World, to well-known gentlemen of this City, who would probably have suffered from him, but for his arrest.

HENRY SAUNDERS, a youngster about 20 years of age, was arrested here yesterday by some Detective Police Officers from Philadelphia, and carried back to that city for trial. He is accused of having murdered a boy in Philadelphia, and of having committed highway robbery and other crimes in that city.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer met yesterday pro forma, when the gentlemen summoned as a Grand Jury were dismissed for the term, and the Petit Jury ordered to appear on Monday next.

The Coroner's Inquest in Jersey City, in the case of JOHN BRECHINGHAM, who died from injuries received at the Olive House in this City, at the hands of a ship-runner named GEORGE CARTER, was concluded yesterday. The Jury rendered a verdict against CARTER, who was thereupon committed to Hudson County Jail, his bail having surrendered him on the finding of the Coroner's Jury.

The General Markets, yesterday, opened more firmly for Cotton and Flour. Such article was in demand. Grain, Groceries and Provisions were not remarkably active. A limited business was transacted in Naval Stores, Oils, Tobacco and Freights.

Presidential Politics.

The canvass for the Presidency, early as it opens, is already brisk. In every party strenuous efforts are made to secure the nomination of special personal or sectional favorites. The Democratic Party is greatly divided,—more so probably than it has been at any time since 1848. As it is in possession of power, it would seem naturally to have superior chances of victory on that account:—but every one feels this to be rather an embarrassment than a help. Mr. BUCHANAN has shown an alacrity at sinking which astonishes even his oldest friends. He always had a fair reputation for imbecility,—but not one in twenty of those who knew him best, believed him capable of what he has since achieved in this direction. No ordinary man could possibly have dissipated in so short a time so splendid a political future as that which he inherited two years ago. The Administration support is likely to damage the unhappy victim upon whom it may fall. Yet it may aid other causes in thwarting the will of the Democratic Party. Mr. BUCHANAN will undoubtedly hope for a renomination:—but he could not get the votes of one in ten of his own officeholders, if they should happen to be members of the Convention. Senator HUNTER will probably be the Administration candidate,—and his known ability and conservatism will give him strong support, especially in the Southern States. But Gov. WISE will dispute Virginia with him, and may prevent his nomination, though he can scarcely hope to secure his own. Gov. WISE has said and done too many ultra things on the Slavery question, and is generally of too spasmodic and pyrotechnic a temperament to inspire confidence in the masses of the Northern Democracy.

The rumor has been circulated that DOUGLAS intends to publish a letter withdrawing his name as a Presidential candidate. We see no reason for believing that he is likely to do anything of the kind. He could not do it without indelicacy, or without throwing away advantages of position which may give him influence he will need. If the Administration succeeds in defeating his reelection to the Senate, by bribing members of the Illinois Legislature, it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to prevent his nomination either by the whole party, or by the Northern portion of it. In any event he will unquestionably be a very strong candidate in the Charleston Convention. His Southern tour has, doubtless, shown him that there is a very strong conservative feeling on the subject of Slavery among Southern men,—that Mr. BUCHANAN's letter-variations on the Kansas question have won him a good deal more distrust than respect,—and that the whole South is now inclined to follow the lead of JEFFERSON DAVIS and Colonel BENTON. The fact that his speeches—the same in Memphis and New-Orleans as in Chicago and New-York,—were received with equal favor and commanded equal assent, shows the existence of a more national feeling in the Southern States than they generally have credit for. The active leaders and wire-pullers of the party at the South, especially as they are represented at Washington, will, undoubtedly, be against him:—but as, according to present appearances, he will have the strong support of the North and West, it is by no means impossible that he may command even a two-thirds vote in the Charleston Convention,—especially if STEPHENS, of Georgia, should be acceptable to the Southern Democracy for the Vice-Presidency. Very much, however, will depend upon the course at Washington during the present Winter. His action there is much more important to him than his reelection in Illinois.

In the Republican ranks there is even greater difference of opinion in regard to a candidate. The instinct of the party is to nominate Gov. SEWARD, not only as the ablest and most conspicuous statesman of the party, but as its best representative, and the man who has done the most to build it up. In this State the feeling in his favor promises to be nearly unanimous. The principal obstacle grows out of the distinct and strongly pronounced hostility of the Americans, who cast 50,000 votes in this State last November, and whose ruling sentiment is much stronger than their numbers both in this State and elsewhere. The great mass of this party is invincibly hostile to Gov. SEWARD, and also, though possibly in a less degree, to Gov. CHASE, his Western competitor. There is a movement on their part, of which the apparent object is to bring forward Senator CRITTENDEN, but which probably means something else, as the dominant sentiment of the party is favorable to Young America. Gov. BANKS is a favorite with them, and if he lived out of New-England would undoubtedly be strongly pressed for the nomination.

But a new Republican movement is just announced, which may command attention. It is to make Col. FREMONT again the candidate, putting upon the ticket with him some live Southern or Southwestern man, like BLAIR, of Missouri, who has ability, political courage, and the advantage of living in a Slave State. As a general thing, a candidate who has been defeated once is not a favorite for a second run,—unless he has extraordinary abilities or political position. FREMONT's large vote in 1856, however, may supply the place of these requisites. But at present the proclivity of the party is to nominate some representative man,—some one whose life gives a guarantee for his opinions and his action; and we have very little doubt that, just at present, at all events, Mr. SEWARD would command the votes of a decided majority of the Republican Party. What changes a year may bring about can only be conjectured:—they are quite as likely to be in his favor as against him.

The Mayor's Message.

The Message of Mayor TIEMANN to the Common Council, which we publish in full, is a very long document, but let none of that long-suffering clash known as Tax-payers neglect to give it an attentive reading on account of its length. Though long, it contains no extraneous matter, nor a superfluous sentence. It is as compactly written as possible, and contains an immense amount of information of special value to every inhabitant of this City. Mayor WOOD held very peculiar notions in respect to what a Mayor's message should contain, and he used to divert attention from the affairs of the City by introducing into his annual Message, long dissertations on the subject of Free Trade, the Fortifications of the Harbor, and other matters with which the Common Council had no more business than with the internal arrangements of the President's household. But Mayor TIEMANN deals with the legitimate subjects of his message with most praiseworthy directness, and enters at once upon that topic which would necessarily engross the first thoughts of the Chief Magistrate of the City—the expenditures of the Common Council. And most people will be startled to learn that after all that has been said about the reckless prodigality, jobbing, and extravagance of the Common Council during the past five years, that the increased expenditure under the control of that body has been very small indeed—only eighteen per cent. Mayor TIEMANN cannot be suspected of a desire to apologize for any of the enormities of the Common Council; but he is altogether right in showing the people of the City to whom they are indebted for the fearful increase of their burden of taxation. The increase in the expenditures of the Police Department since 1853 has been 47 per cent.; in the Almshouse Department, 82 per cent.; for Schools, 103 per cent.; to which are added the cost of the Central Park and the State taxes, making the increase of taxation for purposes over which the Common Council have no control, 162 per cent.; while the increase in the cost of the City Government, over which the Common Council have any authority, has not been greater than the natural growth of the City demanded. From a very clear statement of the funded debt, and the sinking fund, the financial affairs of the City appear to be in a very sound condition, and if the annual outlays are large the resources of the City are also large, and no difficulties are to be apprehended from a depreciation of the public credit. The balance sheet of the public ledger presents a very satisfactory array of figures. The Mayor recommends a change of the fiscal year of the City to correspond with that of the General Government, so that it shall commence on the 1st of July instead of the 1st of January. He thinks that some better, more efficient and economical plan for cleaning the streets than has yet been adopted should be devised, but suggests no method himself. In relation to the public markets he recommends that all that do not yield sufficient revenue to keep them in order, should be abolished. A very sensible proposition. These anomalous establishments, it seems, taken together, do not pay the cost of maintaining them; yet they are valued at $1,200,000, and the principal ones are located in parts of the City where property commands the highest rents. We do not see why the Mayor should recommend the sale of a part of this property, instead of the whole, or rather that any of them should be "abolished" and not all; for if they are public conveniences, and their existence could not be defended on any other ground, the fact of their not being remunerative to the Government is no argument in favor of their discontinuance. In relation to the wharves and docks, the Mayor makes some very sensible suggestions, points out the disgraceful condition of most of the public landing places, and recommends that they shall be reconstructed under the direction of competent scientific engineers. There is no subject that demands attention more than this, for the prosperity of the City depends in a great measure upon it. Mayor TIEMANN is the first of our chief magistrates who has evinced a proper regard for this matter since the time of Mayor CLARK. He also makes a very sensible recommendation in reference to the restoration of the City Hall. He is opposed to the plan of adding another story, which would involve a very great expense and be of very doubtful convenience; he proposes that the Hall shall be restored to the condition it was in before the conflagration of last August.

The only Department of the City over which the Mayor has had control, during the past year, has been that of Streets, and it is there that the most important changes have taken place, and where the most promising reforms have been effected. But the City Inspector's office will now be under his control, to a certain extent, and he will have the responsibility of nominating a new head for that most important Department. We only hope he will be as fortunate, or as discriminating, there as he has been in the Street Department.

The Message, on the whole, is a very commendable document; it deserves the special study of every one who is interested in the Government of this great Metropolis; from the array of facts which it presents, a very comprehensive idea may be formed of the condition of our municipal affairs, and the causes of the disorders from which we suffer.

The Wreck of the Susan.

The fillibusters as fillibusters, are, it must be confessed, by no means fortunate men, but as common pirates and outlaws, they are the luckiest dogs we ever heard of. Their fillibustering has never gone well. Hard knocks, bad fare, sickness, and repulses attended their first campaign in Nicaragua. The fortune of war was all against them. But then, in their character of United States criminals, they have so far enjoyed an immunity from the ordinary perils of law-breakers, such as is rarely to be met with. In WALKER's first expedition, after a series of brilliant victories, and in spite of the universal sympathy of the whole population of Nicaragua, that gentleman, and the remnant of his forces, found himself, owing to circumstances over which he had no control, cooped up in Rivas subsisting on mule flesh, and within six days, more or less, of hanging. At this critical juncture, when any other cut-throat would have had to surrender at discretion and meet his fate as best he might, the United States forces intervene, carry him and his adherents off in national and even British vessels, and, in spite of his insolence and general unmannerly behavior, land the whole party safe, and, barring damaged digestions, sound in their native country. If SYLVANUS COBB, Jr., had deigned to write a fillibustering story for the New-York Ledger, and had pitched on such an unpromising subject as WALKER for a hero, and had put him finally in such a fix as that in which the "gray-eyed man of destiny" found himself on this occasion, and got him out of it in the same way in which WALKER got out, neither COBB's reputation as a romancer, nor even the high standing of the Ledger itself, would have saved the tale from the charge of gross improbability.

The third act of this curious performance is, if possible, still more outrageous in its unlikelihood. WALKER openly violates the Neutrality laws, enlists men to wage war against a friendly power, puts to sea after a fraud on the Custom-house, and duly invades foreign territory. Any other person in this position would assuredly have been looked upon as in possession of the very poorest prospects; but the United States does not leave even her scamps to their fate in this way. Commodore PAULDING once more carries back the hero and his dupes to peace and plenty; and then the Federal officials, by way, no doubt, of enlivening the dullness which soldiers generally feel in "piping times of peace," got up "garrison theatricals" at New-Orleans, and gave a representation of a charming piece called the "Fillibuster's Trial," in which General WALKER appeared as the prisoner.

After a few months' interval the General goes to sea again; defies the United States authorities, sails without papers, and carries off a Lieutenant of the Federal Navy as a hostage for the good behavior of the public. Insolence like this, one would think, will surely bring down vengeance and misfortune. It certainly would in a novel. But truth, as has been remarked tolerably often, is stranger than fiction. The Susan is wrecked on a coral reef; but the crew, instead of going to the bottom, are actually picked off by the British—of all people in the world—and once more tenderly, carefully, politely carried back to the United States. Once at home, one would naturally expect that, in the ordinary course of things, the whole party would take to the woods, in order to avoid the police. Nothing of the kind. By the last accounts they were parading the streets of Mobile with music and banners. SYLVANUS COBB, Jr., has evidently been hitherto too tame and prosaic in his plots. Let him give the reins to his imagination.

More Work for the Ladies.

The Mount Vernon Association will have more work ready to their fair hands as soon as they shall have finally bought Mr. JOHN A. WASHINGTON out of the sight and hearing of his disgusted fellow-countrymen. Let them not, therefore, spare to add Radway's Ready Relief of $25,000, just offered by that enterprising Æsculapius, to the ten thousand already paid by the prosperous publisher of the Ledger. They will need all the funds they can collect, and we who frowned on the notion of taxing our New-Year's visits may at last be brought to submit to sterner and more searching expedients at the behest of patriotism and beauty. Perhaps the omnibus proprietors might be induced to issue tickets for their stages, at six cents each, the odd cent on every quarter's worth purchased going to the Mount Vernon Fund. This would save us all some trouble in the making of change, and unless we happened to hand up the wrong ticket to the wrong driver would be a real mitigation of the miseries of Broadway travel. Something, at all events, must be done or prepared. For Mr. JOHN HANCOCK, of Boston, the nephew of that illustrious premier baron of our American Magna Charta, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence, and great fountain of Democracy, has just died in the Tri-mountain city, leaving the ancient mansion-house on Beacon-street with its quaint gables, and high-perched dignity of aspect, at the mercy of chance and a much dispersed posterity. Precisely who inherits this precious remnant of our Revolutionary world we do not know; but we believe there can be little doubt that the name of HANCOCK is verging fast to extinction in the direct line. Envious modern buildings elbow the venerable walls which have given shelter at one or another time to all that is most illustrious in our Revolutionary history. Heedless young Boston in peplons and crinoline flaunts by the neglected terraces and beneath the old-fashioned balcony of the haughtiest of Republicans. And we should not be surprised to learn that the death of the late possessor is to be followed by the immediate sale of his property, and that again by the conversion of the "old Hancock house" into an approved "swell-front palace," such as our provincial friends at the Eastward delight to dwell in. And this, of course, must not be. The ladies must rescue the house of HANCOCK even as they are rescuing the home of WASHINGTON. If Virginia is too poor to buy and save from profanation the one, Massachusetts certainly is not rich enough to protect and preserve the other. Still Virginia ought to do for Massachusetts as much as Massachusetts has been doing for her,—and it would be a very fraternal thing for Hamor A. WISE to prepare as earnest an eulogy upon HANCOCK as EDWARD EVERETT has bestowed upon WASHINGTON. While the Pericles of Boston traverses the South with his praises of the greatest son of the Old Dominion, the Demosthenes of Richmond should go through the North, sounding the trumpet of the most conspicuous candidate offered by New-England to the gibbet of Ministerial tyranny.

A MOVEMENT IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.—A large number of the citizens of the New-Haven (Conn.) District have invited Ex-Senator BALDWIN to permit his name to be presented as a candidate for Congress. As outcry is raised against the movement, in some quarters, on the ground that it interferes with the regular mode of making nominations by Conventions. So much the better. This indeed should be one of its chief recommendations, for we shall never have any prospect of a deliverance from the corruptions and imbecilities of our political system, until the entire machinery of caucuses, primary meetings, and nominating conventions is broken up. It is by the use of this machinery that weak men are put in positions for which they are utterly unqualified, and that corrupt men obtain the power to fatten themselves upon the public plunder. As long as the present system holds, popular elections are mainly a farce. The actual choice of rulers is made, not by the people and at the ballot-boxes, but in these private assemblies, unknown to the law and open to every kind of chicanery and intrigue. In large cities especially the evil has become so intolerable as to be universally recognized; and in the country districts, although it is less conspicuous, it is becoming quite as general and as productive of bad results.

The only remedy lies in precisely such action as has been taken in New-Haven. Let the people take the matter into their own hands. If they select able, experienced men of eminent qualifications for public place, their choice will be ratified at the ballot-box. No better selection could have been made to begin with than that of Gov. BALDWIN, and the result in his case will show whether the people of his district are ready to take the management of their own affairs, or whether they still prefer the labor-saving tyranny of the caucus system.

IMPLIED TRUTHS.—Any man who enriches the language with a new phrase for an old fact deserves the commendations of the Press, at least, and of the Bar. It was only a Judge, we believe, who objected to Webster's Dictionary, with its thirty thousand new words, being put into the hands of a certain eloquent advocate.

Let us, then, thank the Washington Union for arming us with a new and graceful circumlocution for something so familiar as the earliest invention of the "Father of Lies." When the schooner Susan sailed from Mobile with her pirates, their banjos and their brandy, the Union, speaking with authority, assumed the startled notion that "upon the vigilance of our officers in the Gulf the peace of the world might depend," since the arrest of the Susan by any foreign cruiser would at once provoke a war. This statement the Union now informs us meant nothing at all, but was merely an "implied truth," the President having perfectly made up his mind that the whole crew of the Susan were to be regarded as filii nulius, natives of No Man's Land, who might be taken, shot, or sunk, at discretion by the first comer.

"Implied truths" of this kind are not infrequent in the columns of the Union, and we are much indebted to the official organ for furnishing us with so pretty a euphonism in the place of the more blunt and coarser epithet by which they are commonly known.

GOVERNOR MORGAN'S FIRST ACT.—The first official act of Governor MORGAN indicates a prompt and very decided character for business. He had but just taken his oath of office when he issued his order for the withdrawal of the militia from Quarantine. The Governor is sanguine in the belief that "reason has resumed the seat which impulse usurped for a time" on Staten Island, and that, hereafter, the people of that lovely locality will indubitably respect the laws and property of the State. We most sincerely trust that Governor MORGAN's guage of the Staten Island mind will prove correct; but still, in a population whose "impulse" leads them to set fire to hospitals and dwelling houses, and set the laws of the State at defiance, we should say it would be the safer plan, decidedly, to protect the property of the State by at least a corporal's guard, than trust to reason in Richmond County resuming her seat. It was, undoubtedly, an act of wisdom on the part of the Governor to withdraw the troops; but there having been no evidences of a change of feeling in relation to the location of the hospital at Quarantine, it will be nothing more than an act of prudence to establish some kind of a safeguard to prevent the repetition of the scenes of last September.

Withdrawal of the Troops from Staten Island.

Governor MORGAN, in the following letter, issues instructions for the withdrawal of the troops from Staten Island. The announcement that the "Staten Island war" is at an end will be received with satisfaction by the troops and by the public at large:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, Jan. 1, 1859.

Adjutant-General Frederick Townsend:

GENERAL—I feel confident that, as the immediate danger of contagion has passed away, reason has resumed the seat which impulse usurped for a time, and that the people of Richmond County will henceforth respect the laws and property of the State, and will seek redress for any wrongs they may suffer by peaceful measures only. You will, therefore, issue the proper orders for the withdrawal of the troops detailed and stationed at Staten Island for the protection of the Quarantine Buildings.

In so doing, you will express to the troops my high sense of their soldierly conduct in the unusual situation in which they have been placed. They have entitled themselves to the gratitude of the people of the State, and have shown that they deserve the confidence which New-York has ever reposed in her citizen soldiery.

I am, Sir, yours, &c., &c.,

E. D. MORGAN.

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF NEW-YORK, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, ALBANY, Jan. 1, 1859.

Special Order, No. 1:

1. The Commander-in-Chief is pleased to direct the withdrawal of the troops which have been garrisoned at Quarantine, for the protection of the property of the State located there. To this end, therefore, Major-General SANDFORD will countermand the order for the detachment detailed in relief of the Eleventh Regiment, now on service at Quarantine.

2. The Eleventh Regiment will, as already ordered from the First Division Head-Quarters, be discharged from further service at Quarantine on Monday next, Jan. 3.

3. General SANDFORD will direct that on the disembarkment of the guard by the Eleventh Regiment, its Quartermaster will turn over to the proper officer of the Commissary-General's Department all the public property for which he may be responsible.

4. The Commander-in-Chief is pleased to recognize the valuable services which the troops of the First Division have performed so satisfactorily at Quarantine.

In every vicissitude they have borne all the expenses and privations incident to the soldier's life without a murmur, and have fully proved that the confidence so generously reposed in them has not been misplaced.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

FRED'K TOWNSEND, Adj't Gen.

Georgia reports announce the death of Dr. Thomas Holly Stivers, at his residence in Sumter, Dec. 19. He was an author, an able classical scholar, and remarkable for many accomplishments.

We desire to congratulate you upon the brilliant triumph in your own State, and to assure you that in the late struggle, which terminated so gloriously, you had the sympathy and prayers of many of our best citizens, who have long been complete. You have powerfully contributed to reinstate the principle of free government in its proper place in the Democratic party, and have done it in unity with the general feeling of the country. We feel to applaud your gallant bearing, and to tender you our signal homage to you as the hero of a great victory. We trust, therefore, that you will regard our invitation, and accept our sincere and earnest greeting that Philadelphia is anxious to extend to you.

Senator DOUGLAS, in response, [illegible] turned to Alderman BRADLEY.

Mr. CHAIRMAN of the New-York Committee: It affords me pleasure to respond to you my grateful acknowledgments for the reception which I have received at the hands of the citizens of Philadelphia, New-York, and for the generous manner in which you have performed those duties which were especially devolved upon yourself. Everything that could have been done has been done to impress me with the conviction that I was truly the Empire State. I shall carry away with me the memory of your kindness and the recollections of the visits to New-York and Philadelphia will be ever fresh in my memory.

Then, addressing himself to Mr. CHAPMAN, the President of the Philadelphia Committee, he said:

Mr. CHAPMAN, I cannot refrain from saying to you, in acknowledgment of the [illegible] you have made on behalf of those [illegible] that I am truly grateful to you, and to those for whom you speak. To be met here by so large a number from Philadelphia, with the sanction of the corporate authorities, and carry with them the Independence Hall, is a [illegible] conferred upon a public man. I do not feel myself at liberty to [illegible] self of this offer. It was my intention to go to New-York this morning and [illegible] ington, and nothing but a [illegible] of the present great have changed the [illegible] return you my thanks for the kind [illegible] have expressed the wishes of the Committee, and [illegible] sentiment myself from this time in your hands.

The Aldermanic Committee who have charge of the City's hospitalities to Senator DOUGLAS during his temporary sojourn in New-York, accompanied him to the steamer Joseph Bellona. They [illegible] Philadelphia delegation took him [illegible] Alderman BRADLEY presided in the absence of the party. The steamer was gaily dressed with flags in honor of the occasion, and there was a large company of citizens upon the pier to witness his departure. The "Adriatic Club," which last year was organized in the City to promote the interests of Mr. DOUGLAS, brought a brass cannon to the Battery, and fired a parting salute of one hundred guns.

As the steamer left the dock, (at precisely [illegible] P. M.,) the crowds upon the pier gave three cheers for Senator DOUGLAS, and these were for the City of Philadelphia. The party on board the steamer returned the civility by removing their hats and giving three cheers and a tiger for New-York. Mr. DOUGLAS stood hat in hand bowing to his friends until the boat was in the stream.

The delegates who came here to accompany Mr. DOUGLAS to Philadelphia state that extensive arrangements have been made to receive him there upon his arrival.

ARRIVAL OF SENATOR DOUGLAS IN PHILADELPHIA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Jan. 3.

Senator DOUGLAS arrived here this evening, en route to Washington. He was received at the wharf by a Committee and the "Keystone Club," the campaign body of the last Presidential election. Salutes were fired from Windmill Island in honor of his arrival, and a large procession formed, with torches and banners, and escorted him through the principal streets, in an open barouche, to the St. Lawrence Hotel. A heavy snow-storm prevailed at the time. On reaching head-quarters Mr. DOUGLAS, in compliance with the request of the committee, addressed them, using about the same language as on the occasion of the New-York serenade. He did not suppose the demonstration was intended as a personal compliment, but as an evidence of attachment to the principles which he struggled to uphold.

A speech from Mr. FORNEY being demanded, he appeared and said that Mr. DOUGLAS was not received as a Presidential candidate, but as a hero, who had stood up against misapplied official power and corruption.

Mr. DOUGLAS will receive his friends to-morrow in Independence Hall.

PREPARATIONS FOR A RECEPTION IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Monday, Jan. 3.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the friends of Senator DOUGLAS was held at the Gilmore House, to-night. A Committee was appointed to make preparations to receive him and tender him the hospitalities of the city.

Departure of Gen. HOUSTON.

HIS LETTER DECLINING THE HOSPITALITIES OF THE CITY.

Gen. HOUSTON left New-York yesterday morning for Washington. In consequence of pressing business he was compelled to decline the hospitalities tendered him by the common Council, which he did in the following letter:

MERCHANTS' HOTEL, Dec. 31, 1858.

S. A. Bonce, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of the Common Council of the City of New-York:

DEAR SIR: I have had the honor to receive your note of this date, tendering, on behalf of the Common Council the hospitalities of the City of New-York, and requesting me to mention what day and hour will be convenient for me to receive the visits and congratulations of your fellow-citizens.

Deeply sensible of the honor conferred on me, and gratifying as it would be to my feelings to meet the citizens of New-York generally, I am, nevertheless, reluctantly compelled to forego the pleasure, my present visit being entirely on private business, and for the purpose of meeting a few personal friends, added to which my duties in the Senate require that I should leave this City on my return to Washington on Monday morning next. Be pleased to convey to the gentlemen of the Common Council my, and the sickness of my family, and to present myself with which I am, your very obedient servant,

S. F. HOUSTON.

Musical.

DODWORTH'S SALOON.—Monday Evening last Twaits gave their second classical matinée, [illegible] to a fine audience, consisting that it was the [illegible] visiting day. The programme opened with Beethoven's Quartette in E flat, opus 127; after which a Motetto Sacro, by Mr. Wagner, admirably played, then a favorite air on the violin, performed by Mr. Twaits; and finally a trio in F major, by Rossini, [illegible] paid enough to confess that the music of this composer is unfamiliar to us, and also to add that we should be glad to hear more of his productions. [illegible] any remarkable elevation of style, he has a clear, intelligible perception of musical form, and a pleasant vein of melody very unusual in the compositions we have "current coin" of late. We extract the trio as a delightful work, capable on its popular merits of giving satisfaction to a musical audience. The piano part is very ably written; the violin and cello seem "drop in as they pass passing," and are occasionally amusing, but frequently embarrassed. The movement was a very enjoyable entertainment.

The young ladies of the Western Female High School at Hartford, Conn., have adopted as an adjunct from the Rev. John B. Kenny, of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, distribution of medals to the graduates, and that gentleman's beautiful medals of gold have been the medals wherewith was adorned Miss Kenny, in a handsome [illegible]

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

A MISERABLE SET OF DESTITUTES.—On Sunday night Mr. Rosier called at the Station-house in the Twenty-sixth Ward, and informed the officer in charge of a case of destitution which had just come to his knowledge. He said that in Forty-sixth-street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, there was a family, consisting of a man, his wife and four children, who were at the point of starvation. One policeman, sent to inquire into the matter, found the facts to be as stated. They took the family in charge and yesterday they were sent to the Jefferson Market Police Court, where they were cared for. The house these wretched beings had been driven to take for their home is one in which extreme poverty alone could think of seeking shelter. It is a frame building, which about a year since was partially consumed by fire. The charred beards are now as they were when the firemen left them, and one room alone remains where misery could ask for a hiding-place. This, from the wretchedness which has filled it for the last six months, looked more squalid than if it had been uninhabited. The plaster shell which enclosed it had long ago scaled off, leaving interstices between the lath, through which the wind whistled in a manner more in accordance with the theories of "ventilating fiend" than with the practices of humanity of man. But this was not all. The storm, which has not left quiet in force, found this wretched family before mere did, and gave them suffering enough. The warmth generated by their huddling more closely together as the winds blew, cold, only served to melt the snow which was fast driving in, and making their abode more obnoxious than ever. These, as if this were not enough, the rain poured in and fairly deluged them, so that when they were found, the children, from the oldest, nine years of age, to the youngest, who first saw the light a year ago under a shed in the Ninth-avenue, had what scanty clothing still covered them completely saturated with water. In one corner was a straw mattress, which had served more the purpose of a sponge than a bed. A rickety table in the other corner held a pile of broken crockery, and suggested the idea that the wretched people might once have had something to eat, on the stove, which was then cold and obsolete enough, leaded that there might once have been fire in the room. But there was no morsel of food nor spark of fire then, for the story was the same old one of starvation and suffering. Children and parents were both nearly stupefied, the former by cold and hunger and the latter by drink. Part of a loaf of bread and a small half pint of coffee, which a kind-hearted German woman brought in as soon as the condition of the family was made known, still remain in the room, but the only occupant it has now is a dog, which growls at the passers-by as though to keep them from looking at such a scene of wretchedness. It may be that this place is vacant only to give room for the transaction of similar scenes during the next and perhaps during the present Winter.

THE NEW COMPTROLLER.—ROBERT T. HAWS, Esq., the new Comptroller, entered upon the duties of his office yesterday. He was sworn in some ten days since. The Comptroller yesterday received a large number of visitors who called to congratulate him. Many of the old employes of the office were standing about in rather uncertain attitudes, as though they apprehended the fall of the official axe. In addition to those announced in yesterday's TIMES, we understand that others of a minor character have been determined on by the Comptroller. They will not be officially promulgated until to-day.

MORE STORMY WEATHER.—The holiday visitors have scarcely ceased to congratulate themselves upon the prevalence of fair weather and dry walking, when the City is again visited by a storm which promises to equal, if it does not exceed, its predecessors of the week past. A raw, chilly wind prevailed all day yesterday from the northeast, with an overcast sky, strongly suggestive of snow. About 7 o'clock P. M. a light snow began to fall, with every indication of its continuance through the night. The temperature is too cold, at the time of writing, to melt the snow, but we cannot well tell what a day or night may bring forth. The Sound steamers having resumed their regular trips, left yesterday at their usual hour, but the heavy weather which they must have met last night in the Sound, may have caused some of them to anchor for the night.

REVIVAL OF THE WHIG PARTY.—The members elect of the Old Line Whig General Committee for 1859 will meet for organization at TROST's, corner of Broadway and Eighth-street, to-morrow evening, and it is expected that, from the substantial character of the Committee, good work in the advancement of true Nationality may be expected.

[illegible].—The screw-steamer Guatemala, of 1,000 tons burthen, built by SAMUEL SNEEDEN, for the Panama Railroad Company, will be launched from her yard at Greenpoint, weather permitting, this (Tuesday) morning, at 6½ o'clock.

LOST OVERBOARD.—WILLIAM DODD, a seaman belonging to the schooner D. C. Butler, from New-York, bound to Savannah, was lost off the mainsheet, when near Tybee, on Saturday week. The weather lowered, and every effort made to save him without effect, there being a fresh breeze blowing at the time. He belonged to this City.

Police Reports.

PECUNIARY SPECULATIONS OF A BOGUS GERMAN COUNT—His Lodgings in the Tombs.—A young rosy-complexioned and elegantly dressed Gentleman, a few days since, drove up in a carriage in front of a boarding-house in Grand-street. He helped a lady out of the carriage and, accompanied by her, entered the house. Half a dozen trunks were taken in after them. The dashing Tenion announced his name as Count De Morczyski and the lady as the Countess De Morczyski. The best room was given to them, and the politest attention showed them. Mrs. Myers, a widow lady, was the hostess of the boarding-house, so highly favored with the presence of such illustrious guests, and the number of her establishment is 113 Grand-street. Mrs. Myers was proud of her noble guests. One day the Count came rushing from his apartment in a terrific rage and announced that, in his temporary absence, his trunk had been broken open and robbed of some gold coin. He charged Mrs. Myers with the robbery, and had her forthwith arrested. The accused landlady was taken before Justice CONNOLLY, at the Tombs, and gave bail to appear for examination. The examination took place yesterday. The evidence showed the Count to be an impostor, and a vile swindler, and the calumniated Mrs. Myers to be a virtuous and honest lady. Instead of having money, all his German coinage, the pretended Count had not a dining saloon in Florence, Mass., where he had filled the genial, but useful, position of waiter. Mr. John V. Sohn, of No. 130 East Broadway, told the sickly stories of the pseudo count. He formed the acquaintance of the young German about six weeks ago, in Volk's Garden, and subsequently called upon him at his boarding-house. The second time he called he was importuned for a loan; his third visit the dashing Count suddenly retired from the room, leaving his guest and his wife in the room together. The wife turned the key in the door and commenced making love. Mr. Hem, who, however, resisted her fascinations, picked up his hat, opened the door, and left. A few days subsequent to this occurrence, the Count asked for a loan of $10, and on account of his refusal threatened to have him arrested for not paying his board. The proprietor of the Hotel No. 45 Whitehall-street, testified that the Count stopped at his house, and represented that he was a German noble of distinction. One of the boarders at the Whitehall-street Hotel had the misfortune to get drunk, and the Count helped him to his apartments. The victim of intoxication afterwards discovered that he had been robbed, and a portion of his money was found on the Count. The evidence was very plain, and the complaint against Mrs. Myers was dismissed. The Count was lodged in the Tombs to await trial on charges of perjury and robbery. The prisoner, had evidently intended to go somewhat largely into monetary speculations. Upon his person were found letters of credit dated at Paris, London, Berlin, and other leading cities of Europe. He also had with him several letters of introduction to leading men of this City. One of the letters was addressed to Governor Morgan. The letters were all in one hand, and had evidently been written by himself. The pseudo Count takes his arrest with the utmost indifference, and even has the audacity to insist that he is what he really professes to be, a Germanic Count of the pure and unadulterated material.

ARREST OF AN ALLEGED PHILADELPHIA MURDERER.—Some Philadelphia Detectives have been several days in this City, looking for a youth named Henry Saunders. The object of their search was discovered, early yesterday morning, coming from an alley-way leading into Jackson-street. A gang of young thieves were with him, who did their utmost to prevent his arrest. The shining muzzles of two or three revolvers had a terror-inspiring effect, and the thieving gang quick ly took to their heels. Saunders, according to the charges preferred against him, although only twenty years of age, is an old and hardened offender. He is accused of having murdered a boy in Philadelphia, with the commission of highway robbery, and being a participator in several burglaries and other robberies. He was taken, last evening, to Philadelphia for trial.

A CARNIVAL.—Thomas Barrow resides in Third avenue, near Twenty-third-street, and he has brother, Patrick. The brother has not been, for some time past, very amicably inclined towards Thomas. Patrick called on Thomas yesterday, and after uttering a few savage words, commenced to make a meal of Thomas. He bit off Thomas' nose, took out, relishing the flavor of the first mouthful, spit the piece out on the floor. He next essayed to secure a fraternal rub, but by the time he had fractured four of Mr. Thomas's ribs, some persons in the house came to his rescue. The cannibalistic brother was taken before Justice KELLY, and assigned more rational and healthy diet.

Coroners' Inquests.

THE WASHINGTON-STREET MURDER—VERDICT OF THE JURY AGAINST THE ACCUSED MURDERER.—The inquest was resumed yesterday at Jersey City by Coroner MORAN, in the case of JOHN BRENNAN, who died from injuries received at the hands of GERRET CANTER, at the Ohio House, corner of West and Warren streets, on Tuesday last. Rosier W. Emerson testified that deceased was his brother-in-law. About a year ago he married his wife, and since then has occasionally drank to excess. The following is a summary of the evidence taken:

Officer Tolhardt stated, that a dispute occurred between Mr. Carter and deceased first in game of cards; Brennan accused Carter of cheating him.

Henry Fuller, bar-tender at the house, stated that the deceased came there directly after the landing of the steamship Vanderbilt; they drank several times; there was a game of cards for drinks, which ended in a fight between the prisoner and the deceased.

Hugh McGuire testified that he was assistant engineer on the steamship Empire City, and had known deceased nearly two years; he left the ship with the deceased on last Tuesday night, and they went together to the Ohio House where they had a couple of drinks; after the deceased asked him to play a few games of cards; they played several games, and then got up to go back to the ship, when Carter, who had just come in, asked them to play a game with him; McGuire objected to playing with Carter, but the deceased wishing to play, he consented to play two games, and, accordingly, he, the deceased, Carter and a friend of his, played two games together; when these were finished, Carter offered to play with deceased for twenty-five cents a game; they played some two or three games when a dispute arose; Carter struck deceased over the left eye; the deceased told Carter that he was a big man, but notwithstanding this, if he was sober himself he would lick him; Carter struck deceased two or three times, knocking him down; the friends of Carter and witness raised the deceased up, when Carter again struck him; the deceased was pretty drunk and did not strike back; Carter dragged the deceased six or seven feet upon the floor and then purposely fell upon him, and struck him two or three times before he got off from him; witness then left deceased and went on board of the ship.

William Linden said that he was present when the affray occurred, and that he knew Mr. Carter by sight; when he came there they were quarreling, and he saw Carter strike deceased; they then clinched and deceased fell upon the floor when Carter struck deceased with his fist, having his knee on deceased's breast; he dragged him around the floor and struck him several times with his fist, when Officer Tollwell, getting between them, pushed Carter away; he saw Carter punch deceased several times in the stomach with his knee; deceased did not use abusive language to wind Carter until after he was struck; he does not think Carter was drunk.

Dr. Wilson testified that he was called to see deceased about 5 o'clock on Wednesday evening last; he examined him and found his abdomen very much distended over the region of the bladder, he suffered excruciating agony on the slightest movement; he introduced a catheter into the bladder and drew from it nearly a gallon of bloody fluid; he attended him almost constantly from that time until his death, and rendered him every assistance in his power; but he declined very rapidly; he was delirious most of the time after Thursday, and died on Friday night.

Drs. Wilson and Reeve made a post mortem of the body. They found the bladder ruptured and torn for about two inches, and considerable effusion into the cavity of the abdomen. The immediate cause of death was rupture of the bladder.

There being no further evidence, the case was here given to the Jury, who rendered the following rather singular verdict:

"That JOHN H. L. BRENNAN came to his death at the hands of GEORGE CARTER, of New-York City, a steamship runner, not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being moved and seduced at the instigation of the devil, on the morning of the 29th day of December, 1858, between 1 and 2 o'clock, with force and arms, at the Ohio House, in the City and State of New-York, in and upon the said J. H. L. BRENNAN, then and there being in the peace of God and in the State aforesaid, did wilfully and maliciously assault and kick and pound, with his fist and feet, and kneed him with his knees, over the region of the bladder, thereby causing a rupture of the bladder, from the effects of which he died on the 31st day of December, A. D., 1858."

On the rendition of the verdict, the prisoner was committed to the Hudson County Jail, to await the action of the Jury of that County.

THE FORTY-FIRST-STREET SHOOTING CASE.—The person who shot EDWARD HERR, the young German, early on Saturday morning in Forty-first-street, is still unknown. The police, yesterday, were busily engaged in trying to get a clue of the attempted murderer, but thus far their efforts have been unsuccessful. Young HERR is pronounced by his physicians as in a very critical state, and the probability is he will not survive his injuries. Coroner GAMBLE yesterday, took his ante-mortem examination, and his statement corroborated the account published in Monday's TIMES. HERR testified that he was in company with several acquaintances on the night in question, and that they called at the lager-bier saloon of WILLIAM STOTZENBERGER, in Forty-first-street, near Ninth-avenue, to get a drink. Finding the door locked, the party turned to go away, but a large man with a red head opened the upper windows and called them back, saying that he did not let them in at first, supposing they were rowdies; at the moment the gun was fired HERR was standing on the edge of the sidewalk, and did not know at first that he was shot. The names of some of the party with him were JOHN SUTHER, JOHN SWALLE, JOHN HAHN, JOHN WISENNE, ADAM HUBER and GEORGE KELSON.

SUICIDE CAUSED BY JEALOUSY.—A young Frenchman named THEODORE BURELL, and said to have been a fireman on the steamship Vanderbilt, committed suicide on Sunday evening, at the lager-bier saloon No. 304 Greenwich-street. The young Frenchman had become infatuated with a young Irish girl named MARY MCQUIN. The burning passion of the young fireman was not reciprocated by the young lady. BURELL called on Sunday evening, and discovered the object of his affection exhibiting fondness for another young man. BURELL drew a dagger, stabbed himself to the heart, and fell dead to the floor. Coroner SCHMIDT held an inquest upon the body, when a verdict of suicide was rendered.

DIED OF HIS INJURIES.—DANIEL NEVILLE, the laborer employed on the Hudson River Railroad, reported as having been seriously injured a few days since by a car running against him, died yesterday of his injuries. Coroner JACKMAN held the inquest. The evidence showed that the deceased was pushing a freight car upon the track when he was run into by another car. The Jury deemed the occurrence accidental and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—THE COMPTROLLER'S ESTIMATES.—A regular meeting of the Brooklyn Common Council was held last evening, President KALBFLEISCH in the chair. A communication was received from the Mayor, inclosing one from the Brooklyn City Gas Light Company, refusing to enter into contract with the city to supply the city with gas for five years upon the terms proposed. The whole matter was referred to the Gas Committee for report. A resolution, offered by Alderman WILSON, was adopted, directing that at the special election to be held on Tuesday next, to elect an Alderman of the Fourteenth Ward, the polls be held at the following places: First District, at No. 72 Ninth Fourth-street. Second District, No. 10's Engine House. Third District, No. 78 Grand-street. The bids for furnishing the city with stationary and executing the printing, were received, opened and referred to the Committee on Supplies for report. A communication was received from Comptroller LEWIS, notifying the Board of a deficiency in the salary account for the year ending the 31st of December last of nearly $2,000; and accordingly the salaries of the Mayor and other officers, for December, have not been paid. (Referred to the Finance Committee.) The Comptroller sent in a communication in favor of making the following appropriations for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1859, as recommended by the joint Board of Aldermen and Supervisors:

Amount to be raised for interest	$84,195 00
To be paid on public debt	143,878 12
Salaries of city officers and Police, after deducting city revenue	25,167 00
Amount to be raised and charged to the city at large	57,406 00
Fire Department and lighting streets	131,825 00
Cleaning streets and repairing wells and pumps	38,150 00

The communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

IN TROUBLE.—Some of the Brooklyn Police are in a peck of trouble. One of their number, a few days ago, arrested a woman for obtaining goods under false pretences. She was locked up in the cells, but during the night she got up a Cunningham accouchement sixty, minus the "blessed" baby, which was not forthcoming. She pulled the wool over the Police Physician's eyes, and made him believe that the baby might be expected very shortly. He was modest, and, taking her word for the truth of her statement, had her carried home on a litter by four athletic M. P.'s, who sympathized deeply with the patient in her hour of trouble. Arrived at home, she locked the door, and bid the M. P.'s and the M. D. defiance, and positively declined having a baby. The officers could do nothing. It was raining and snowing, and they returned to the Station-house, cold, wet and crest-fallen. After a good sleep one of the officers resolved to rearrest the woman. With this object in view he visited the house. It was a long time before he could get the door open, and when he did the fair Amazon told him to take her. She was in her chemisette! He left suddenly, and was last seen at head-quarters, seeking advice and comfort from the head of the Department. The woman still holds out in her citadel, and, doubtless, will do so until the end.

FOURTH-AVENUE.—The grading of this avenue from Baltic-street to the New-Utrecht line—a distance of about three miles—is now under contract, and will be completed, if no unnecessary delay occurs, during the present year. A portion of this avenue (some six blocks, between McComb-street and Sixth-street) is now nothing but a salt-water marsh. It is almost in the heart of the city, and is covered by water at every tide. The average depth of the filling to be done between the points named is about twenty-two feet. Aside from the large amount of property this avenue will open up for improvement, the grading to the city will be valuable in a sanitary point of view. The work will cost about $100,000, and give employment during the year to several hundred men. The avenue, when completed, will be one of the finest in the city. It is 80 feet wide, and will have a footing upon it of 1,200 twenty-five feet lots, which at the present time are comparatively valueless.

BROOKLYN COURTS.—The Special (Supreme) Court Term Calendar will be taken up to morrow, when twenty cases are [illegible] for trial. The Grand Jury will be discharged from further service, the Court of Oyer and Terminer and the City Court opened yesterday. The Petit Jurors were sworn and discharged until the 10th inst. The Court of Sessions, for criminal business, will commence to-day, when a Grand Jury will be organized. The Grand Jury will have a large number of complaints against the liquor dealers to attend to.

MAN MISSING.—Mr. RUD HERNIG, a German, doing business in New York, and residing at No. 230 Washington-street, Brooklyn, has been missing for over a week, under circumstances that excite the most painful apprehensions for his safety. He left his boarding house in the morning to go to his place of business, and that is the last trace of him. He had considerable money about his person.

MORTALITY.—During the last week there were only 93 deaths in Brooklyn; 57 of these were children and 44 females. There were ten deaths by consumption. Of the total number, 12 were over 50 years of age.

SUPERIOR COURT—JAN. 3.

Before Judge Slosson.

Samuel S. Salter vs. Fernando Wood.—The summing up of this case, the trial of which has now occupied upwards of three weeks, was commenced this day—the session being occupied until a late hour with the argument of Mr. O'CONOR for the defence.

The argument of the cause will proceed on Tuesday, with Mr. D. D. Field's address on behalf of the plaintiff. The trial to-day was attended by a crowded audience, many prominent citizens and members of the Bar being present.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—JAN. TERM

Before Judge Russell.

The charge of the Court to the Grand Jury will be delivered to-day, a quorum of that body not being in attendance yesterday. The Petit Jury were called, and mostly answered to their names. The usual excuses were offered by a large number of those in attendance, but were in very few cases allowed. The new District-Attorney, Mr. Waterbury, took his seat and conducted the examination of witnesses for the prosecution in the trials of the day.

Bryan Feaney, aged 18 years, was tried for an assault and battery, with intent to kill Patrick Connolly, by stabbing him with a knife, on Nov. 14. The wound was a severe one, being inflicted in the abdomen, and Connolly was a long time confined in the City Hospital, with, at first, a very poor chance for recovery. The assault grew out of a grudge of old standing betwixt the parties. The evidence was conclusive,—indeed, the defendant did not deny the assault, but alleged intoxication as the excuse. He was convicted, and sentenced to nine years and six months in the State Prison.

William Reed was tried for burglary in the third degree. On the fourth of December the store of Caspian H. Craft and Augustus L. Bogart, No. 28 Jay-street, was broken into, and, according to the testimony of those complainants, the immense sum—immense as to its weight at least—of seventy-two dollars in pennies, was abstracted therefrom. Reed was captured by a policeman with a pail full of pennies, amounting to $27 40 on his arm. His companion, bearing nearly forty-five dollars worth of pennies, escaped. The testimony as to Reed was plain and straightforward, and the Court sentenced him, upon conviction, to four years and six months in the State Prison.

William J. Owens was tried for forgery in the third degree, in altering a check on the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank from $100 to $120. Evidence very slight; acquitted.

James Mann pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree. The Court reserved sentence, and adjourned.

Consumption can be Cured.

DR. CHURCHILL'S DISCOVERY.

CAUTION TO THE PROFESSION AND THE PUBLIC.—The increasing popularity of WINCHESTER'S GENUINE PREPARATION OF DR. CHURCHILL'S COMPOUND OF THE HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME, SODA AND POTASH in the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption, Scrofula, &c., is exhibited in the various articles put upon the market purporting to be based on this discovery, which are combinations of other and inefficacious elements, of no value whatever.

Let no one be deceived, but ask for and use only the compound of the Hypophosphites, sold from the sole General Depôt in the United States, No. 40 John-st., which bears the fac simile signature of J. WINCHESTER. THIS IS THE ONLY RELIABLE FORM OF DR. CHURCHILL'S REMEDY.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED that the physiological effects of the use of the Hypophosphites are two fold—increasing the principle which constitutes NERVOUS FORCE, and being the most powerful BLOOD GENERATING AGENTS KNOWN. The results establish the following conclusions:

1. The PROMINENT CAUSE, or an essential condition of the tubercular diathesis, is a DEFICIENCY in the system of the phosphorus it contains is an oxygenizable state.

2. The STRIKING REMEDY of the disease consists in the use of a preparation of phosphorus, uniting the two conditions of being in such a state that it may be directly assimilated, and at the same time at the lowest possible degree of oxydation.

In all Nervous Complaints, Debility, LOSS OF VITAL POWER, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, and Female Weakness, it is a sovereign and invaluable remedy. The compound of the Hypophosphites, AS PRESCRIBED BY DR. CHURCHILL, exert an important remedial influence, BY REASON OF THE NERVOUS ENERGY, OF A TONIC CHARACTER—improving the nervous strength, and invigorating the nutritive functions.

This remedy is not only possessed of a curative power in advanced stages of consumption, but its use will PREVENT the development of the disease in those predisposed to its attacks. Let none fail to try it!

Price $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5. Full directions accompany each package. Circulars and all necessary information given to all who may send to the office, or write inclosing a stamp.

"DUBUQUE, Iowa, Dec. 12, 1858.

To Messrs. S. C. Herring & Co.:

SIRS: In reply to your letter of inquiry, we would say that a short time since, one of the locks upon the Burglar-Proof Box got out of order (not the Hall Lock,) and we were obliged to call in an experienced locksmith, who, with all the necessary tools at command, succeeded in cutting through the outer plates and cross-grating to the Lock, after two days of constant and hard work. The Hall Lock has never given us any trouble, and we have great confidence in it; also, (as you may suppose,) in your Burglar-Proof Box, after so thorough a trial of its strength. Respectfully yours,

INSTRUCTION

COURSES IN VOCAL MUSIC.

THE NEW AND CELEBRATED FRENCH METHOD.

Mlle. J. E. SAUVAGEOT, recently from Paris, will form classes for the instruction of pupils of both sexes by the celebrated new method, due to the joined labors of Galim, Paris and Cheve, the superiority of which is now universally acknowledged in France.

This beautiful and natural method is adapted to all ages and capacities—easily, rapidly and thoroughly imparting a knowledge of the principles of the science, and practically developing the latent powers of the voice.

With this method, a practical and theoretical knowledge of music is in a few months attained—a result which, under the old methods, is impossible, even after years of labor, as is well known, and a course of instruction in this method is the best preparation and the only solid foundation for the study of instrumental music.

The beauty and simplicity of the method will be appreciated by witnessing the results of a few lessons, and ladies and gentlemen, and parents with their children, are invited to attend the three first lessons of each public course.

Private courses on Mondays and Wednesdays.

A public course will open on Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 8 o'clock P. M., at the Cooper Institute, room No. 21, when further particulars will be given.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

THE WALLACE PIANO-FORTE.

The undersigned have been successful manufacturers of Piano-fortes for more than thirty-five years, during which period they have received numerous testimonials as to the good qualities of their instruments, from the first artists and musicians in the country, and as well from private individuals and families. Their Pianos have also received the first premium at almost every Fair where they have been exhibited, and it is but just to say that no instruments have gained a more deserved reputation for good and reliable workmanship and finish, or given better satisfaction to purchasers. But after careful and repeated examinations of the Piano-forte, invented and patented by Mr. Briggs (and called "the Wallace Piano"), we have become thoroughly convinced that his is the true principle for constructing this instrument, and that it only requires to be properly brought before the public, and known, to supersede, in a very great degree, all other Piano-fortes.

To any reflecting mind who has at all considered acoustics, it cannot fail to bring conviction at once. The difference between this and pianos made in the ordinary way, is exactly that of a violin made up with sides, front and back, many times the proper thickness, and a large portion of the inside space occupied with solid blocks and bars, and one having the present scientific and graceful form of that beautiful instrument. In fact, the principle upon which the violin is made is effectively carried out in Mr. Briggs' patent piano. For strength, durability and power to keep in tune, and retain its tone, it is certainly superior to all other pianos we have ever seen. Instead of depending upon the skin, or any portion of the wood-work for strength, the entire strain of the strings is sustained by an iron frame work, or bed-plate, so braced as to give the greatest strength with the smallest amount of iron; and as it draws against itself, and being in one united piece of iron, it cannot possibly give out. The case and upper and lower sound-no-board form a complete vibrating shell, which not only gives double the space for a sounding-chamber, and a vastly increased volume and depth of tone, but renders the instrument far more sensitive to sound, and correspondingly more sympathetic.

These facts have induced us to close our manufactory. And our friends and the public generally can readily understand that no speculative or impractical idea, or anything short of a plainly demonstrated certainty, would induce us to give up a reliable and successful business of nearly forty years' standing. Such we have done, and entered into arrangements with the Messrs. Briggs, for the exclusive sale of piano-fortes made by them, under the Briggs' Patent.

Our stock of seasoned materials, together with various machines and conveniences for making the best and most reliable work, will be turned over to them; and our most skillful workmen, some of whom have been with us more than thirty years, and most of them from fifteen to twenty years, will also add their experience and skill to insure the highest mechanical perfection in these new instruments.

In view of the increasing taste for music, and the requirements of all the late publications of first-class composers, none of the new instruments will be made of less compass than seven octaves. The prices of the square Pianos will range from $300 to $500; The Melodeons (or what are usually termed Semi-Grands) will range from $500 to $750; and Full Grands, from $750 to $1,000; and the most expensive Full Concert Grands, $1,200. We shall be able to add Upright or Cottage Pianos to this list, in the course of a few months.

All who feel an interest in the art, whether they wish to purchase or not, are respectfully invited to call and examine these instruments, at our warerooms, No. 239 Broadway, corner of Park-place, and also at No. 407 Broome-st., corner of Greene-st.

AFFAIRS AT ALBANY.

The Inauguration of Governor Morgan—Interesting Scenes—Electing Assemblyman Crook—The Next Legislature—Candidates for Speaker and Clerk.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Saturday, Jan. 1, 1859.

New-Years opens warm, damp and blue. The weighing tragood, but the sidewalks are wet and slippery. From early morning the military are putting themselves through their evolutions, and the fife and drum are continually stirring in our streets those emotions which are uppermost on General Training days. As early as 11 o'clock the Capitol is crowded with people, anxious to see by what process the Empire State surrenders one Governor and assumes another. The part of the building at that hour is more densely than the Governor's room, into which minister, all their cake, apple-peddlers, Senators, Beggar-girls and Sixth officers. Neither Governor is about, however. At 11½ o'clock, Governor Morgan enters, with his Staff, and is introduced very informally to those present. Soon after, Governor King and his Staff enter, and shake hands all around. At 12 o'clock, the Albany Burgesses are at the door, the Governors arm-in-arm, their Private Secretaries arm-in-arm, and Staff officers, &c., form a procession and attempt to march at the Assembly Chamber. The Governors get through without much trouble, but the rest of the procession is terribly squeezed on its route. The only other crowd like it for squeezing is such a one as on New-Years days files through the charred and dirty purlieus of your City Hall, and, shaking hands with your Mayor, goes to the pies board, on which sandwiches and cheese are set out for the people to help, until the Policemen bids them to pass on and out at the other door of the Mayor's Office. There are no ladies on the floor, but a saving sprinkling of them in the gallery, which also is full to its utmost capacity. Order being called and secured, Mr. Simon J. Tanner, Secretary of State, lays off his dingy gray overcoat, and extending either a remarkably little Bible or a New Testament, Mr. Morgan, Governor elect, steps down from the Speaker's Chair, puts his hand upon it, hears the oath of office, kisses the little Bible or big Testament, and steps back to his seat. Governor King now rising, unfolds a few sheets of note paper and reads a brief address to his successor. He compliments him on the high office to which so large a majority of the people have voted to elevate him. He assures him that his personal character and political antecedents fully commended him to the people, and renews the assurance that Governor Morgan will never betray the people's confidence. He (Governor King) enjoyed the conviction that in his (Governor Morgan's) hands the honor, the wise policy and the principles of the Empire State will be faithfully upheld and administered. The position was one of much care and deep responsibility, but it was not wanting in choice privileges—the privilege of serving the State well. In conclusion, he was sure that he would find that fidelity to freedom is loyalty to the Constitution.

Governor King was frequently interrupted by applause; meanwhile a cannon on the Common, at minute intervals, roared out the popular ratification of what was going on, and rendered portions of the address inaudible.

Governor Morgan replied modestly, and in a calmer tone. He complimented Governor King upon the noble bequest he would leave to his children—an unstained reputation. His motives had never been impugned nor questioned. Party spirit may have assailed him, but that was always to be expected. The Press may have criticised his official acts; that was its province. No one had ever attributed to him a dishonest or unworthy motive. The moment that he (Governor Morgan) was relieved from the pressure of public cares, he (Governor Morgan) must assume them. Your freedom from care, said he, becomes my anxiety. Accustomed to commercial and political business, it must now become his chief thought to preserve unimpaired the credit of the State, and study its welfare. He was not required to enunciate new principles of action or of government. The principles that governed the statesmen of the Revolution, were the doctrines of the people now. He should earnestly strive to follow in their path. If, in moments of alarm, he ever wanderes from it, he should hasten to regain it again—the path of safety and of true policy. He should move to the performance of his new duties, relying humbly on that Divine Power which planted the State, and had nourished it thus far, and sustained it. The Governor sat down, while the house rang with applause. The audience then as hastily as possible retired. One enthusiastic individual in the gallery called out "Three cheers for Governor Morgan!" but it failed to connect. The house was disposed to be quiet and orderly in its demonstrations. The military re-formed, and the old and the new State officers walked two-by-two to the Governor's room.

Some of the Albany papers had announced that the inauguration this year would be unusually brilliant. There was nothing brilliant about it. The two Governors, behind the Speaker's desk, were dressed simply in citizen's dress; the Staff Officers rejoiced in new uniforms, and four soldiers in blue overcoats, with tall bearskin caps, and bearing muskets, stood during the ceremonies. The rest of the assembly sat who could, and the rest stood, packed tightly in the aisles.

The two doors of the Governor's room were thrown open, and for the next two hours the people passed in at the one, shook hands with Governor Morgan, and passed out at the other. After dinner, a few who felt privileged to do so, called on the new Governor at his residence—the old Townsend residence, on the South side of State-street, the nearest house to the Capitol below the Park. Governor King, too, saw hosts of friends, and received their congratulations on his successful escape, after so honorable a career, from the cares of State.

The Legislature convenes on Tuesday, at 11 o'clock. A large number of Senators and Assemblymen are already on hand, and an innumerable host are candidates for the dozen or score of places in the gift of the House. Everybody says Mr. LITTLEJOHN will be Speaker, though a great many add that Gen. DUREYA can be if he wants it. The General has not yet arrived, however, and nobody knows whether he will consent to be nessed in caucus. The only men talked about for Clerk are Mr. HUGHES, of Washington, and Mr. RICHARDSON, of Albany. If Mr. COLE, of Kings, had not been detained by sickness, there is much reason to believe that he would have stood quite as good a show in caucus as either. RICHARDSON has seen almost every member personally, but HUGHES has a troop of fast friends working for him. As it stands, he will probably get the largest vote, who promises to make the most democratic, for pretty nearly every member has his favorite candidate for Deputy and his absolutes. But it is New-Year's Day, when, if some members are entitled to immunity from a long letter, and I will not violate the proprieties of the occasion by a longer infliction. GLAUCUS.

ALBANY, Monday, Jan. 3, 1859—A. M.

Yesterday was as pretty a Spring day as ever dawned on Albany. The air was balmy and genial, the sidewalks clear of snow, and dry, the crossings tolerable for boots. The streets were as quiet as Mansion-street of a Sunday, but inside the hotels I think I have seen it stiller. The Sabbath services do not monopolize the whole time, and considering the array of candidates for Deputy Clerks, Sergeants-at-Arms, Door-keepers, &c., and from observing how crowded and worn the button-holes looked of the New members yet in, I have no doubt there was some little canvassing going on. This morning the sun rises upon as tangled a skein of complications as you can imagine. Nobody seems to doubt that Mr. LITTLEJOHN will be elected Speaker, but there are several gentlemen who would not mind receiving a compliment they vote for that responsible office. Mr. HUTCHINSON of Orleans has enjoyed a seat for three consecutive years in the Assembly Chamber and that portion of the Canal interest which lies west of the longitude of Oswego can his name and press his claims freely. Mr. LOOMIS, of Lewis, an only brother of CASEY, of Lycoming, and not more than twice the size of that accomplished Oriental traveler, is talked of mostly by the Canada people, though in the Canada delegation is ex-Deputy-Clerk SPRAGUE, whose name is occasionally mentioned in the same connection. There are no New-Yorkers about, to talk up Mr. CONKLING, though if they were their modesty would shrink from the burden of carrying a Governor and a Speaker at the same time. As Essex County sends but a single man, the nomination of Mr. HALL will devolve upon a member from some other district, but several are willing to undertake the task. Most of these friends of minority candidates volunteer their willingness to unite upon Gen. DUREYA, if Mr. LITTLEJOHN should positively decline to stand in the way of honoring a new man, but then it is generally protested that when the General arrives he will decline to stand in the way of a unanimous nomination of the gentleman from Oswego.

Meanwhile the Americans have been busy. They came up with one solitary straight American—Mr. KING, of Delaware—but with 11 American-Republicans, and 14 more Republico-Americans. At a late day, a circular, understood to have been written in Albany, and signed by Mr. BOVERSOX, of Saratoga, was sent out to those members of American antecedents who were elected on Union tickets, inviting to a meeting of consultation at Stanwix Hall, at noon, to-day. It was generally presumed that this would be only a meeting of consultation with reference to going into the Republican caucus. But, late last night, it was whispered that a ticket would be presented, and that those who were not disposed to forfeit their claims to a hand voice in the Republican caucus might be compelled to bolt prematurely, if they sat down with the Americans.

As to the clerkship, Mr. HUGHES, of Washington, no doubt is strongest with the lobby, and with the members now present, but when the tribes come in with their crowd of members not yet affected by the Albany air, Mr. RICHARDSON's name is quietly pledged. Advocates are expected to submit the vote-bearers. In this view the long list of Deputies are trembling lest they have been too free in promising for the Free-Soil Ex-Congressman from Washington County. The Hughes men argue that as Mr. LANSINGH is of Whig descent, the Clerk should be a man who serves at Republicanism and the Democratic way,—which does not seem to tell very decidedly. But the second point they make, that Mr. RICHARDSON stood in the way of a union of the Americans and Republicans last year almost captured the American affections. On the other hand, the suspicion that central Republicanism would have, he suited by Mr. HUGHES' election alarms the old American spirit, and now it looks as if the American-Republican vote would go east for RICHARDSON.

Meanwhile it is so freezing to contemplate the calm men of Senators, who have no offices to elect, and who spend their time in reviving associations and talking over the contested seat of the Eleventh District. Mr. WARNER, the Republican, will claim the warm seat of Mr. MAYNARD, who heedlessly accepted, as his opponents say, or, at least as his friends admit, was on the verge of accepting the office of Postmaster at Hunyvesant Falls, which he strenuously sought. As you have not published the list of members since soon after election, I annex it:

The Governor's Message was dispatched from the Evening Journal office, a copy for each New-York daily, at 8 o'clock this morning. GLAUCUS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

ALBANY, Monday, Jan. 3.

The Trustees of the Dudley Observatory this afternoon took possession of the building heretofore forcibly held against them by the late Scientific Council, and the officers appointed by the Board of Trustees are now in peaceful possession of the building.

There was a caucus, this afternoon, of all the Americans elected on the Union ticket. A call appears in the Journal for a Republican caucus to-night. In consequence of this call being confined exclusively to the Republicans, the American Union members expressed a determination not to take part with them in the organization. Fourteen members were present at the meeting, which adjourned till to-night.

The Republican Caucus was called to order a 7 o'clock this evening by Mr. HUTCHINSON, of Orleans, who nominated Mr. SHEPPARD, of St. Lawrence, chairman.

Mr. SHEPPARD, on taking the chair, briefly returned his thanks for the honor conferred on him, and congratulated the Republicans on their position in the State.

Mr. STOCUM, of Onondaga, and Mr. STRONG, of New-York, were chosen Secretaries.

Mr. SCHOLFIELD, of Oneida, moved that all the members elected on Union tickets be invited to participate in the proceedings of the caucus.

Mr. ADSON, of Cayuga, moved to amend by confining the invitation to Republicans elected on Union tickets.

Mr. DUREYA, of Kings, and Mr. SCHOLFIELD spoke warmly in favor of the original resolution, and Mr. VAN HORN and Mr. ARSOTT opposed it.

On motion of Mr. HUTCHINSON, the subject was laid on the table.

Mr. KING, of Erie, inquired whether the handbill calling a caucus of Republicans and all the Union members opposed to the Administration was official?

The Chair said such was not the call read by the gentleman who called the caucus to order.

Mr. SCHOLFIELD desired to know by whose authority the call read from the Chair was issued.

Mr. HUTCHINSON said the caucus was called according to the common custom.

Mr. SCHOLFIELD replied that then one call was as official as the other.

An informal ballot was then taken for Speaker, and Mr. DEWITT C. LITTLEJOHN receiving sixty-five votes out of eighty-nine, was, on motion of Mr. MORGAN HALL, unanimously nominated as the candidate.

Mr. WILLIAM RICHARDSON was nominated for Clerk on the first ballot.

Mr. D. M. PARSONS, of Oneida, was nominated for Sergeant-at-Arms.

The American Union members met again this evening and nominated Mr. CHAUNCEY BOVERSOX of Saratoga for Speaker, and Mr. DAVID WILSON for Clerk.

Compliment to Governor King.

Messrs. S. VAN RENSSELAER, PETER GANSEVOORT, NICHOLAS HILL, THURLOW WEED, and other citizens of Albany, have tendered the compliment of a public dinner to Governor KING. The Governor declined the dinner, but returned the following reply:

ALBANY, Dec. 31, 1858.

GENTLEMEN: I beg leave to acknowledge the receipt of the invitation with which you have honored me to a public dinner. I am deeply touched by the manner and the sentiments of your letter of invitation. It is a frank and generous testimonial from good and honorable men, among whom I have been long, for the last eight years, the recipient of kindness and confidence. Your approbation of my public life is a reward which I prize above all earthly reward. I cherish myself greatly honored by your gravity, sustained by such a proof of friendly feeling and general confidence. I should gladly accept the invitation to meet you, and should deem it a great distinction to do so; but I have made my arrangements to leave the city early in the ensuing week, I am reluctantly obliged to forego your proposed hospitality. Accept, then, assurance, friends, my warm and grateful acknowledgments for this unexpected, but most welcome expression of your personal regard and consideration. It comes to me on the eve of my separation from those who have won from me the strongest regard, by the uniform kindness with which they have received and honored me, and I leave with unaffected regret the associations which have rendered my residence in this ancient city one of unalloyed pleasure and enjoyment.

With great consideration and respect,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN A. KING.

Messrs. S. VAN RENSSELAER, PETER GANSEVOORT, ALBERT J. PARKER, and others.

MONDAY, Jan. 3—P. M.

The Weekly Averages of the Banks of the City of New-York, on Saturday, Jan. 1, 1859, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of Dec. 25:

Increase in Loans	$867,954
Increase in Specie	761,453
Increase in Circulation	149,742
Increase in Undrawn Deposits	2,005,115

Including the Clearing-House operations of the week, which show the interexchanges between the Banks, and including also the Sub-Treasury statement of Saturday, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

COMPARATIVE RECAPITULATION.

	Jan. 3, 1859.	Jan. 1, 1859.	Dec. 25, 1858.
Capital	$64,658,000	$67,734,755	$67,734,755
Loans	98,549,983	127,584,319	126,716,365
Specie	28,561,046	27,129,725	26,376,272
Circulation	6,499,403	7,854,000	7,704,248
Gross Deposits	78,635,224	111,290,742	108,924,628
Exchanged	13,001,557	20,606,551	20,245,452
Undrawn	65,033,667	90,684,191	88,679,076
In Sub-Treasury	3,259,326	5,108,371	6,008,206

The New Year opens with an enhanced movement in all departments of the Bank return. The Specie line is up $761,453, and the average a rising one—the last receipts from California having averaged but two days of the week. The Undrawn Deposits are up two millions dollars, partly, no doubt, in preparation for the Dividends to be paid out to-day for distant States and Corporations. The Loans are up $867,954, in anticipation of the mercantile and other payments of the 1st and 4th January. The peculiar feature in the Statement is that the accumulation of Deposits in this City should stand on the 1st January, in the midst of the active business at the South, to near the Summer maximum. On the 10th July the figures were $92,337,042. They are now $90,684,191. As the Exchanges with the South already show signs of turning in our favor, the probability is not only that the drain in that direction for Specie has almost ceased, but that the balances in New-York from nearly every quarter of the Union will henceforth increase, running up the Deposit line to one hundred millions by the 1st April, and to one hundred and twenty millions by the middle or close of July.

The market for money to-day is partially unsettled by the large dividend payments, and several days must transpire before we have a steady movement all round. Meantime the sums called in by a few prominent Banks are readily supplied to the Brokers by outside lenders, and the negotiations, on demand to-day, are at 3@3½ ⅌ cent. on State and other first-class Stocks, and 4 ⅌ cent. on other reliable collateral. The Discount Brokers report no change of rate on mercantile bills. There was more business done in the way of collecting Dividends to-day than in either borrowing or lending Money. The Foreign Exchange market opens flat for Wednesday's steamer, and thus far the transactions are less than by the last Wednesday's packet. Some sales of Bank bills, (Southern or Canadian,) at 109¼ on London; the whole range of quotation being, as last week, 109¼@109¾ ⅌ cent. Francs are steady, f.5.16¼@f.5.13¾. The coast steamer for New-Orleans to-day took no specie.

The Stock Market opened this morning with a steady feeling, and some additional firmness in State Stocks. The offering of these was quite moderate. Tennessees brought 92¼ ex-dividend; Virginias 96¾, and Missouris 87¾ ⅌ cent. In Railway Bonds, also, the offering at Friday's rates was light, except in Illinois Centrals, which were done at 87, seller 60 days, and 87¾, cash. Panama shares were 123¾, sales in the forenoon, and 117¾@118 the quotation at the Second Board after the announcement of the 6 ⅌ cent. half-yearly dividend. Pacific Mail shares were 1¼@2 ⅌ cent higher than on Friday, and in the afternoon sales were made at 92 ⅌ cent., the stock closing 91¾@92. New-York Central on the early call of the list sold at 84¼, but after the Western Stocks were reached, lower rates were made. On most of them, the price yielded to 84¼@¼@84 ⅌ cent., closing 84 ⅌ cent. The advices from London in regard to Illinois Central carried a decline in that stock of 2¼@3 ⅌ cent. from the extreme bids of Friday, and this gave new courage to the sellers for the decline in Galena, Rock Island, &c. Galena closed 71@71¼ ⅌ cent., and Rock Island 59@59¼ ⅌ cent. Erie shares were steady through the day at 16¾@17 ⅌ cent. Harlem Preference shares 36@36¼ ⅌ cent., being a further rise of 1¼ ⅌ cent., and the common Stock, 13¼@13¾ ⅌ cent. The bids for the first mortgage of the Company were at 90 ⅌ cent., no sellers. The Hudson shares were firm at 34 ⅌ cent. The December traffic is said to be nearer $70,000 increase on last season than $50,000 as heretofore estimated. Brooklyn City sixes sold at 100 ex dividend. The most decided upward movement on the non-dividend list was in Reading, which brought as much as 53¼ ⅌ cent., though closing 53@53¼ ⅌ cent. for the reopening of transfers on 12th January. The Winter Coal traffic over the Road is much larger than last season, and the Stock appears to be held with more firmness, in consequence, both here and in Philadelphia. Pennsylvania Coal also improved to 82@82¼ ⅌ cent. The general market finally closed dull.

The half yearly Dividend of 6 ⅌ cent., declared this afternoon by the management of the Panama Company, is the second division at the same rate, out of 17 ⅌ cent. on the Capital earned in the year 1858, over and above the expenses and interest of the concern, and the most liberal allowance for renewal, depreciation, &c. Of the multitude of similar Stocks now placed in charge of the Trust Companies for the purchase and redemption of the first mortgage of the Company, which at present is held in London at a price in sterling money equivalent to 110 ⅌ cent. The feature in the present exhibit is stated to be the fact that, for the first time, the miscellaneous traffic of the road exceeds the California passenger trade. This department of the business has been rapidly growing for a year or two past, in consequence of the freight facilities by sailing vessels hence to the Isthmus, and by the coast steamers of the Company on the Pacific side, trading to the Central American States.

The January half-yearly dividend of the Merchants' Exchange Bank is 3½ ⅌ cent. The Hanover Fire Insurance 6 ⅌ cent. The January coupons on the Texas Central Railroad Bonds will be paid by REID & TEALOR, No. 85 Chambers street.

The Mariner's Savings Institution has declared the usual semi-annual dividend. The Merchants' Insurance Company, and the New-Amsterdam Fire Insurance Company have also declared dividends.
